RULING GIVEN ON STATUS OF RED TEACHER

State Department Says Mrs. Kosenkina is Beyond Control of Soviets While in U. S.

PATIENT IS IMPROVED

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—The state department ruled formally today that Mrs. Oksana S. Kosenkina, refugee Russian teacher, is beyond control of the Soviet government "so long as she remains in this country."

The ruling was given by Ernest A. Gross, secretary Marshall's legal advisor, in a letter to Justice Samuel Dickstein, of the New York state supreme court.

Mrs. Kosenkina leaped from the third story of the Soviet consulate in New York a week ago and is now in a critical condition in a hospital there. Dickstein sought the state department's ruling at a conference here yesterday with Gross.

Dickstein told reporters the department's attitude would govern his decision, probably next week, on which a writ of Habeas corpus he issued against Soviet General Jacob M. Lomakin remains valid.

The writ directed Lomakin to Mrs. Kosenkina for a habeas corpus hearing last Thursday. This was delayed, but Dickstein told reporters he "could" nevertheless hold Lomakin in contempt for failure to obey the order.

New York, Aug. 19.—(P)—Improvement was reported today in the condition of the Russian teacher who a week ago leaped from the third floor of the Soviet consulate.

During the night she had been reported sinking at Roosevelt hospital.

The hospital said that the patient had not been advised that the Soviet consul general had been invited to send a surgeon for consultation. The invitation was issued yesterday by the hospital.

A spokesman for the hospital said today that it was similar to the invitation that would be extended to the private physician of any private patient, and was for (Turn to Page Fourteen)

Sen. Myers Takes Dig At Congress

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—Congress seems resigned to the idea that nothing can be done about lower prices until a recession or a depression brings them down, Senator Myers (D-Pa.) said last night in a state-wide broadcast to Pennsylvania.

"I'm a little frightened by the tendency in America to look with resignation on the next depression. Everyone you talk to expects it to come eventually. The only question in anyone's mind seems to be: How far away it is, or how close," he said.

He declared that just as the "Republican masters of the 80th congress saw prosperity around the corner in 1929, so today they hope for a reduction in the cost of living—but hoping will not make it so."

"The Republican congress in failing to shore up the foundations of American wellbeing has invited catastrophe for the whole civilized world," he added.

Settlers Moving Into State At Rate of 62,000 a Year

Harrisburg, Aug. 19.—(P)—Billy Penn's woods lost their pioneer status years ago, but settlers are still moving in by the thousands.

In fact, new residents have been pouring into Pennsylvania at the rate of 62,000 a year since 1945.

Only three other states in the nation have proved so attractive to migrants from other parts of the country, says the State Planning Board.

The board said today that latest federal census estimates show the civilian population of the commonwealth has gained 602,000 between 1940 and 1947, an increase of 6.1 per cent in the seven-year period. New York enjoyed a 5 per cent gain.

And if the eminent Mr. Penn could be around to hear it, this

Hiss Tells of Meeting Accuser

Alger Hiss, left, former State Department official accused of having belonged to an "elite" Communist underground, talks to newspapermen in his New York apartment. Hiss, after confronting his accuser, Whitaker Chambers, a Time magazine editor, admitted that he had once known Chambers, but under a different name. House investigators called admission a "major break" in spy inquiry.

Russians Charge Attitudes Of Allies Bog Down Talks

Berlin, Aug. 19.—(P)—Sections of the Russian-controlled German press charged today that contradictory attitudes of the western powers bogged down Moscow talks on the Berlin crisis and the German problem.

These newspapers made the charges of obstructionism along with a renewed propaganda barrage against western occupation policies and Berlin's anti-Communist city government. The city government has just made known it may issue its own currency in an attempt to unravel the divided city's east-west monetary snarl.

The Moscow talks among representatives of the four Big Powers are reported nearing an end.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—Pennsylvania truck drivers were urged today to observe the "white cane" signal from blind physically handicapped pedestrians desiring to cross highway intersections.

William F. Crossett, Warren, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, said "three surrounding states have a 'white cane' law, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. In these states drivers are required to stop when given a signal by an uplitted white cane."

Crossett urged cooperation of truck drivers in the observance as a courtesy and safety measure in Pennsylvania.

Bid For Farm Vote To Be Made By Both Candidates

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—A Democratic farm vote challenge appeared likely today to be answered by a campaign pledge from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to back a strong price support program.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky put up the sign posts for Democratic farm bid strategy with his assertion at Springfield, Ill., that farmers can choose in November between high prices under the Democrats or low prices under the Republicans.

Gov. Earl Warren of California had a chance if he chose to take it—to answer his vice presidential opponent on the same Illinois State Fair platform today.

But the major Republican edict on agricultural policy is expected to come from Dewey on the GOP presidential nominee's projected cross-country campaign tour.

Barkley accused the Republicans of trying to scuttle the cooperatives by cutting off their tax exemptions. He credited President Truman with stopping this move.

The Kentucky senator's talk apparently was only the first of an intensive drive the Democrats plan in the farm belt, which went (Turn to Page Fourteen)

Sweden Has A Version Of Teacher Case

Stockholm, Aug. 19.—(P)—The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said today Soviet representatives here apparently want to repeat the New York Rosenkine case, with 19-year-old Lydia Makarova "playing the leading role in a Swedish version."

The Makarova case is attracting wide attention in Sweden. Most newspapers offered sharp editorial criticism of Russian methods in trying to persuade the girl—a Russian citizen—to return to the Soviet Union.

The foreign office said yesterday it had renewed its warning to the Russians to keep away from the girl. She has said she never wants to return to the Soviet Union.

The official Community party newspaper Ny Dag published an interview with a Soviet embassy official who said the embassy only had only tried to contact the girl for her father, a Red army colonel. He denounced press reports that the Russians are trying to kidnap the girl and said the embassy would "try all official means to deliver the letter from Colonel Makarova to his daughter."

Lydia, who lives at Dalaro, outside Stockholm, refused to see reporters yesterday. The girl says she had been considered a medical prodigy in Leningrad and has continued her studies in Sweden while working as a maid.

FOLKE URGES U. N. ACTION IN HOLY LAND

Mediator Warns Security Council Situation In Jerusalem Is Getting Out of Hand

JEWIS ARE HOLDING OUT

Stockholm, Aug. 19.—(P)—The United Nations Palestine mediator warned the Security Council today that the situation in Jerusalem is "gradually getting out of hand."

He said it is doubtful whether the Holy City can be demilitarized in the near future.

Count Folke Bernadotte, asking the Council for prompt action to halt the renewed Arab-Jewish strife, declared in an interim report that the Arabs have accepted in principle the plan to disarm regular and irregular troops in Jerusalem.

"But the Jews, who stated initially they did not exclude demilitarization, have shown no readiness to accept it up till now," Bernadotte added.

Under these conditions it would be necessary to have a "strong and well-armed international force" to bring about demilitarization of the Holy City, the report said. Demilitarization of Jerusalem has been one of the mediator's primary aims in his negotiations with Jews and Arabs. His latest attempt to bring about a cease fire failed to halt the fighting there.

Bernadotte's report expressed fear these clashes might bring about new full scale warfare. "It should be borne in mind that further deterioration" of the situation in Jerusalem may lead to general resumption of hostilities," he said.

The United Nations mediator had asked Arabs and Jews to accept a new cease fire effective last Friday morning. But the bitterest fighting since the second Palestine truce began raged throughout last Friday night.

The Jews have blamed "irresponsible dissident elements" and the Arabs "uncontrollable irregulars" for some truce violations.

Despite the efforts of himself and observers, he added, "not only firing has practically never ceased in Jerusalem but the situation is gradually getting out of hand."

Bernadotte's sides said the mediator addressed the message to the Security Council after learning it was to adjourn Sept. 1 for 20 days and then reconvene in Paris.

(The Council is meeting today at Lake Success. It hopes to finish its work by tomorrow and start a month-long recess before reconvening in Paris.)

U. S. Lashes At Red Imperialism

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—The United States borrowed one of Russia's favorite charges—"imperialism"—and threw it right back in the Kremlin's teeth today.

The occasion was the state department's official comment on the new Soviet-dictated Danube river agreement.

That document was signed at Belgrade yesterday by Russia and the Soviet satellites. It reserves full control of the waterway to the Danubian states. The western powers—repeatedly rebuffed in their efforts to open the river to vessels of all nations—refused to sign.

One of Moscow's loudest complaints against the European recovery program was that it represented another example of American "imperialism."

Last night's statement was the first time this government has hurled that same charge back at the Soviets.

There were more harsh words, as the United States served notice that it of course will refuse to recognize the new river controls, and so will those parts of Austria and Germany under American control.

Butchers Join Fight Against High Prices

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—(P)—The butcher has joined the housewife in a fight to bring down the price of meat.

About 15 West Philadelphia shops have signs in their windows announcing their co-operation with a housewife's three-day buyer strike starting today.

The signs read: "This store will sell no meat on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in support of a meat strike against high prices."

Cooperation of the butchers was obtained by more than 5,000 housewives who canvassed and circulated petitions.

Guardsmen Taking Time Out For Inspection By Bradley

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—(P)—Pennsylvania's 12,500 National Guardsmen took time out from their rigorous two-week training grind today for an inspection by General Omar Bradley, army chief of staff.

General Bradley, together with other top ranking army officers, was to fly here from Washington to review the 28th Infantry Division which he once commanded.

After inspecting the troops Bradley will tour this vast military reservation and watch the units engage in training maneuvers.

Meanwhile, Guardsmen of the 11th Infantry, of Philadelphia, finished the required 21 day bivouac and prepared to enjoy a half-day vacation granted all units completing the problem.

The 112th, of Erie, which completed the bivouac yesterday, entered the technical training phase today along with close order drill practice.

At the same time, the 109th of Scranton, shouldered its overnight packs and set out on the camp ground. The 110th Infantry, of Washington, which started the bivouac phase yesterday, continued field problems today.

A driving rain and hail storm last night lashed the pup tents of the Philadelphia and Washington units, but the soldiers took the wetting in stride.

Truman Insists the Loyalty Review Program Is Success

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—The House Un-American Activities Committee today ordered three former new deal lawyers to appear for questioning tomorrow in its Communist spy ring investigation. They are: Nathan Witt, Lee Pressman and John Abl.

The committee also said that Alger Hiss, former state department official accused of being part of a pre-war Red underground in Washington, has refused to submit at this time to a lie detector test.

Hiss has denied time and again under oath that he ever was a Communist. He now heads the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

These developments came as President Truman lashed out at the committee. He accused the group of infringing the bill of rights in its inquiry into alleged Communism within the government.

Mr. Truman made it clear that he took issue with criticism of his administration stemming from the congressional investigation.

The president repeated his previous claim that senate and house committee hearings have produced no information not already in the possession of the FBI and presented to a federal grand jury.

He also asserted that the government's loyalty review program is a complete success.

He said the only two people whose names have been brought into the inquiry as suspected Communists already were under indictment.

SMOKY CITY BARBERS HAVE SLIDING SCALE

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19.—(P)—Haircuts are officially $1.25 per each in Pittsburgh today but you can get 'em at anywhere from 60 cents up.

The Master Barbers Association of America on Tuesday raised its haircut price from $1 to $1.25, effective any time from then until Sept. 1.

However, only one of 25 shops in the Golden Triangle went to $1.25 yesterday. Rene A. Mortelle, president of the union, said a number of "neighborhood" shops made the jump.

At other shops downtown, haircuts could be had for 60 and 65 cents and $1 and $1.10. It all depended on where you went.

SILENT THOUSANDS GATHER AT CATHEDRAL FOR FUNERAL OF "THE KING OF BASEBALL"

New York, Aug. 19.—(P)—Funeral services for Babe Ruth in towering St. Patrick's cathedral today climaxed the nation's mourning for the king of baseball.

Silent thousands of persons—the famous who knew him in person and the obscure who admired him in spirit—thronged the Roman Catholic cathedral and overflowed into Fifth Avenue.

Francis Cardinal Spellman presided at the requiem high mass for the "big guy" with the happy grin who rose from a Baltimore orphanage to undisputed monarch of the national sport.

The great doors of the cathedral were open to the public—symbolic, said friends, of the Babe's open heart to the people in the bleachers and the kids in distant places to whom his name meant great sportsmanship.

About 6,000 persons crowded the cathedral to the doors. A police-estimated 50,000 others stood gravely outside under grey skies on hushed Fifth Avenue and surrounding area. A 250-man police detail was on duty for the largest funeral in New York in years.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey headed the list of honorary pallbearers who included prominent sportsmen and sports writers.

Among those present were Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, where the Babe began his big league career with the Red Sox, and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, where Ruth got his first feel of a baseball mitt.

Mrs. Joseph P. Flannery was celebrant of the high mass for the great Yankee batter who died of cancer Monday night in Memorial Hospital, at the age of 35.

The Babe's widow, Mrs. Clara Ruth, their two adopted daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan and Mrs. Richard Flinders, and the Babe's sister, Mrs. Wilbur Moberly, arrived early at the cathedral.

The list of those who filed up the wide grey steps of the Cathedral read like the headlines of the sports pages today, as well as yesterday's: Jack Dempsey and Connie Mack; Leo Durocher and Moe Berg.

As great as the tribute of the famous was the grave silence of a police-estimated 50,000 persons who waited quietly outside the Cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Hammerbeck, 19 South Street, have been notified through the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot that the body of their son, Pvt. Raymond W. Hammerbeck, killed in action overseas, is en route home from Italy, where he has been temporarily buried in a U. S. Military Cemetery.

Pvt. Hammerbeck, former Warren High School basketball letterman, was killed in action in Italy last November 20, 1945, while serving with an infantry unit. Confirmation of his death came in May, 1946, after he had been reported missing in action since the previous fall.

He was inducted into service on March 30, 1943, and served in both the North African and Italian campaigns.

Announcement concerning the arrival of his body in Warren and final rites in his memory will be made later, when further official notification has been received.

Young Dems Hold State Convention

Johnstown, Aug. 19.—(P)—Hundreds of members of the Young Democrats of Pennsylvania gathered here today for their seventh biennial state convention.

Three days of meetings will end with a dance Saturday night. A "campaign school" for young political workers will be held tomorrow and Saturday under the direction of Col. Joseph Dolan, Cambria county prothonotary and Democratic leader. Emphasis will be laid on getting out the Democratic vote.

U. S. Senators J. Howard McGrath (D-R) and Francis J. Myers (D-Pa.) will address the delegates tomorrow, as will Pat E. Keown, chairman of Young Democrats in Dauphin county and Richardson Dilworth, unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Philadelphia.

First business session will be held tonight and officers will be elected and installed on Saturday morning.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—(P)—Butter is six cents a pound cheaper, the lowest since Nov. 3, 1947, L. A. Mullen, vice president in charge of the A and P food stores here, said today.

The drop included a two-cent decline yesterday and a four-cent tumble today, he said.

The price declines brought the cost of a pound of solid butter to 82 cents and that of quartered butter to 83 cents, he said.

Mullen said the new prices reflect a 5 1/2 cent decline in the wholesale market this week.

State's Peach Crop Reported Above Average This Season

Harrisburg, Aug. 19.—(P)—is attributed to the late wet and cold spring season and frosts at blossom time," the department stated.

This was compounded by weather conditions during the growing season which brought on scab infection of the main crop.

The peach harvest in the Keystone state exceeded expectations. The crop is now estimated at 7,400 tons, about equal to the 1937-1946 average. The total is nearly 2,000 tons greater than last year.

Pennsylvania's grape crop is indicated at 16,600 tons, slightly better than average but under the 18,100 tons harvested last year.

SILENT THOUSANDS GATHER AT CATHEDRAL FOR FUNERAL OF "THE KING OF BASEBALL"

New York, Aug. 19.—(P)—Funeral services for Babe Ruth in towering St. Patrick's Cathedral today climaxed the nation's mourning for the king of baseball.

Silent thousands of persons—the famous who knew him in person and the obscure who admired him in spirit—thronged the Roman Catholic Cathedral and overflowed into Fifth Avenue.

Francis Cardinal Spellman presided at the requiem high mass for the "big guy" with the happy grin who rose from a Baltimore orphanage to undisputed monarch of the national sport.

The great doors of the cathedral were open to the public—symbolic, said friends of the Babe's open heart to the people in the bleachers and the kids in distant places to whom his name meant great sportsmanship.

About 6,000 persons crowded the cathedral to the doors. A police-estimated 50,000 others stood gravely outside under grey skies on hushed Fifth Avenue and surrounding area. A 250-man police detail was on duty for the largest funeral in New York in years.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey headed the list of honorary pallbearers who included prominent sportsmen and sports writers.

Among those present were Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York; Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, where the Babe began his big league career with the Red Sox; and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, where Ruth got his first feel of a baseball mitt.

Msgr. Joseph F. Flannely was celebrant of the high mass for the great Yankee batter who died of cancer Monday night in Memorial Hospital, at the age of 33.

The Babe's widow, Mrs. Claire Ruth; their two adopted daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan and Mrs. Richard Flannery, and the Babe's sister, Mrs. Wilbur Moberly, arrived early at the Cathedral.

The list of those who filed up the wide grey steps of the Cathedral read like the headlines of the sports pages—today's as well as yesterday's: Jack Dempsey and Connie Mack; Leo Durocher and Mo' Berg.

As great as the tribute of the famous was the grave silence of a police-estimated 50,000 persons who waited mutely outside the Cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Hammerbeck, 19 South South street, have been notified through the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot that the body of their son, Pvt. Raymond W. Hammerbeck, killed in action overseas, is en route home from Italy, where he has been temporarily buried in a U. S. Military Cemetery.

Pvt. Hammerbeck, former Warren High School basketball letterman, was killed in action in Italy on November 30, 1943, while serving with an infantry unit. Confirmation of his death came in May, 1944, after he had been reported missing in action since the previous fall.

He was inducted into service on March 30, 1943, and served in both the North African and Italian campaigns.

Announcement concerning the arrival of his body in Warren and final rites in his memory will be made later when further official notification has been received.

BUTTER HITS NEW LOW SINCE NOV. 3, 1947

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—(P)—Butter is six cents a pound cheaper, the lowest since Nov. 3, 1947, L. A. Mullen, vice president in charge of the A and P food stores for eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, announced today.

The drop included a two cent decline yesterday and a four cent tumble today, he said.

The price declines brought the cost of a pound of solid butter to 82 cents and that of quartered butter to 83 cents, he said.

Mullen said the new prices reflect a 5½ cent decline in the wholesale market this week.

State's Peach Crop Reported Above Average This Season

Harrisburg, Aug. 19.—(P)—Pennsylvania's 1948 peach crop is above average in contrast to the smallest apple harvest since 1945.

The state agriculture department said today an Aug. 1 federal-state survey showed a crop of 2,123,000 bushels, approximately 204,000 above last year. It betters the 1937-1946 average by 164,000 bushels.

The crop is relatively free of damage by insects and disease, the department added.

But apple growers are faced with a gloomy picture. The 1948 crop is estimated at 5,198,000 bushels compared with 6,612,000 last year and the 1937-1946 average of 2,031,000 bushels. The smallest apple crop in 27 years was 2,470,000 bushels in 1945.

"The decline in apples this year is attributed to the late wet and cold spring season and frosts at blossom time," the department stated.

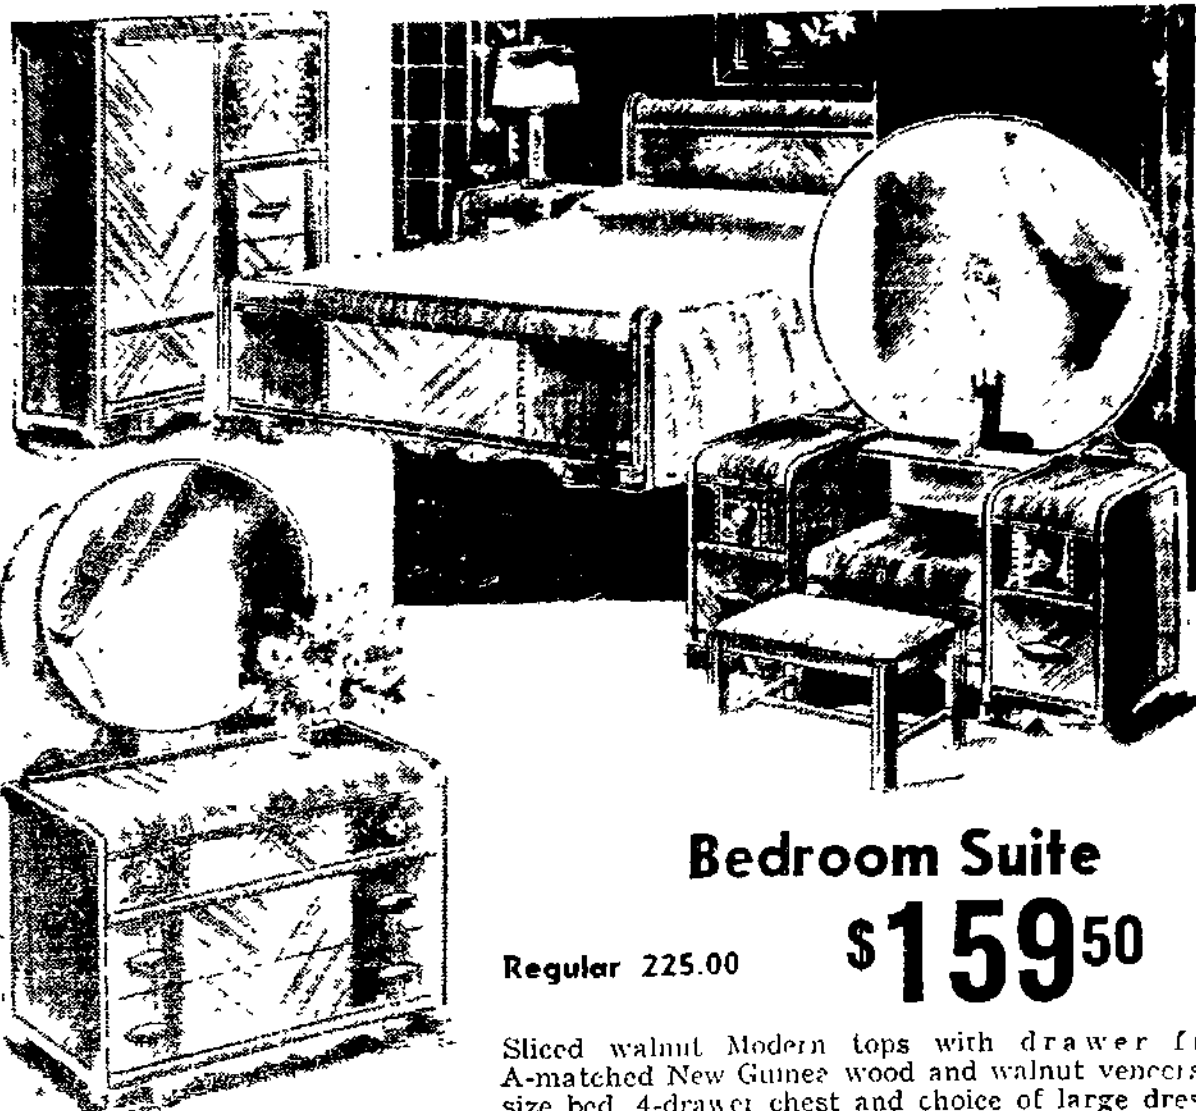

This was compounded by weather conditions during the growing season which brought on scab infection of the main crop.

The sour cherry harvest in the Keystone state exceeded expectations. The crop is now estimated at 7,400 tons, about equal to the 1937-1946 average. The total is nearly 2,000 tons greater than last year.

Pennsylvania's grape crop is indicated at 16,600 tons, slightly better than average but under the 18,100 tons harvested last year.

The pear estimate of 267,000 bushels compares with 290,000 last year and the average of 415,000 bushels.

Du Bois, Aug. 19—Fourteen state policemen attached to Troop C with headquarters at Punxsutawney were shifted in transfers and assignments announced by Lieutenant Frank L. Galloway, effective this week.

Corporal Joseph E. Steiner of headquarters was assigned to command of the Du Bois detail. Privates Hattie Johnson, of the Clearfield detail, and Robert A. Henth, of the Kane detail, also have been transferred to Du Bois while Private Michael B. Pollack of Du Bois, was transferred to Clearfield.

A modern public address system has been added to the permanent equipment of the new War Memorial field in Lexington avenue.

The P. A. system was turned over to the War Memorial Board of Directors at a meeting in the Conewago Club by Pete Panaritis, financial adviser for the Warren Red Jackets football club during the past two seasons.

Pete explained that the P. A. system, used for play by play accounts of Red Jacket games last year, was acquired through the generosity of local merchants who used the system for commercial announcements, and that by turning it over to the Board of Directors, it would be available for all groups using the facilities of the new field.

The directors also considered plans to enlarge the press box facilities at the field to provide sufficient working space for the play-by-play broadcaster and the newspaper and radio game staffs.

Considerable time was spent in going over plans with the architect and engineer for a permanent grandstand and night lighting for the field. This work is expected to start as soon as the necessary funds are made available.

Large Muskie Hatchery Is Contemplated

Jamestown, Aug. 19—Construction of the world's largest muskellunge hatchery officially started last evening when New York State Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea and Assemblyman E. Herman Magnuson turned the first spadeful of earth at the Prendergast Point site.

The official ground-breaking ceremony, held at 7:30 p. m., attracted hundreds of conservationists not only from New York state but Pennsylvania and Ohio as well.

Lack of sufficient funds and materials has delayed construction of the huge hatchery for the past three years but the state has earmarked funds far in excess of the original appropriation of $80,000 that will permit its immediate start. In commenting on last night's ceremony Mr. Magnuson said that "a great ambition of mine has been satisfied as the first shovel of earth opens the way for the Conservation Department's graders and earthmoving equipment that will provide better fishing for both the local and the nation's anglers."

Martin Will Seek Action On Oil Stamp

Senator Edward Martin (R-Pa.) will seek senate approval of legislation calling for a postage stamp commemorating the 90th anniversary of the Drake well at Titusville, first well drilled for oil in the United States. The well was completed August 27, 1859.

Rep. L. H. Gavin of Oil City has revealed that Senator Martin's office has advised him that the senator will introduce a companion bill to one of Mr. Gavin's when congress reconvenes in January.

Introduced at the recent special session, Mr. Gavin's measure providing for the special stamp was referred to the committee on post office and civil service. The session ended, however, before action could be taken. The bill will die with the 80th congress and Mr. Gavin said he plans to reintroduce it in the house when the new congress meets. The stamp can be issued by act of congress or by authorization of the post office department.

Meanwhile, endorsement of the proposed stamp honoring Colonel E. L. Drake and his oil discovery well is coming from the nation's oil industry leaders, according to John P. Herrick of Olean, N. Y., who conceived the stamp idea. He heads a Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association committee backing the proposal.

Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Railroad Commission, of Texas, the state's oil governing body, wrote Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson that the stamp would be "a splendid reminder of the achievements of the great oil producing industry of America."

Other supporters of the idea include former Governor Alf M. Landon of Topeka, Kans., whose forebears were oil men in New York state; Ralph B. Lloyd, president of the Western Oil and Gas association, Los Angeles; Fayette B. Dow, general counsel of the National Petroleum association, D. C.; and Joseph E. Pogue, vice president of the Chase National Bank, New York City, well-known economist.

ELK HOMECOMING

Committees are at work making plans for the 18th annual Elk township homecoming festivities scheduled on Labor Day, September 6. The program for the day is being outlined and will be announced in detail in a later issue.

NOTE TO KIWANIS

A notice appearing elsewhere in this issue urges all members of the Warren Kiwanis club to meet this evening at seven o'clock at the Grimes funeral home to pay their respects to the memory of Dr. R. S. Briggs, long a member of the organization.

REJECT RADIO SETUP

Erie county commissioners will not adopt a proposal to install two-way radio equipment in five county cars, it was announced Monday. Commissioner Dell Darling said the estimated cost of $3,500 is too great an expense, in the opinion of commissioners, for the value to be derived from the radio setup.

TITUSVILLE METERS UP

For the first time this year, receipts from the Titusville parking meters were over $300 for the week ending August 11. The total was $303.20, which included $160.15 in nickels and $143.05 in pennies. Only once before has the collection been over $300 and that was for the week ending last December 24, when the take was $316.

PROPOSE HOTEL ADDITION

The directors of the Titusville Hotel Corp. held a long conference Monday night with N. M. Tinkham of Tinkham and Beck, Jamestown architects, discussing the proposed new addition to the Colonel Drake hotel. Mr. Tinkham assured them he could have plans and specifications ready within three or four weeks in order that construction may get under way this fall.

PICKPOCKETS AT ERIE

Two Erie area men became the victims of a pickpocket Saturday afternoon at the Greyhound bus terminal in that city. The pickpocket obtained close to $400 from Arthur Propheper, a resident of the Concord hotel in North East and R. E. Vaughn, Erie, police said. Propheper said that his wallet had contained $235 while the one picked from Vaughn's pocket contained $110.

PRODUCTION REPORT

Production in the Bradford field averaged 31,307 barrels daily for the past week. This was an increase of 1,448 barrel above the daily average production of 29,859 barrels for the week ending Aug. 7. Allegheny field production averaged 10,012 barrels daily for the week ending Aug. 14, resulting in an increase of 712 barrels above the daily average production of 9,300 barrels for the week ending Aug. 7.

HAY FEVER SEASON

The hay fever season opened officially Sunday, affecting thousands of sufferers who are allergic to pollen. In Kane the annual trek to that community has been started with large reservations in the hotels and rooming houses having been made for several months. The community, located at a high level has gained some measure of fame in recent years for the fact that it is free of pollen during the late summer season.

Outlook For Petroleum Is Little Better

Washington—(AP)—The overall petroleum outlook was described by the House Interstate Commerce Committee as more favorable for this winter than last. At the same time, the group cautioned against "unrestricted use of petroleum products."

Moreover, Committee Chairman Wolverton (R-N.J.), in a report filed with the House, proposed a complete review of the nation's ability to meet oil requirements of the foreign recovery program "without damaging our own economy."

Wolverton also voiced deep concern "with the present ability of our national transportation system to meet any emergency which unfortunately might be thrust upon it, just as we are concerned with the readiness for defense of our fuel and energy industries."

While the immediate petroleum outlook has improved, the report said the committee views the long-range aspects "with continued concern, especially in the light of continued uncertainty in world affairs and our ability to cope with any national emergency."

Wolverton said:

"When we think of expanding our petroleum supplies we are faced with the necessity of becoming increasingly dependent upon outside sources and this is interwoven with international policies and the national defense position. It is certain that if we have to depend on imports they must be from some location in which we can have reasonable certainty of continuance."

"This means adequate transportation, and it means a normal, healthy maintained domestic petroleum industry."

Decrease In Draft Horses Is Reported

San Francisco—(AP)—The work horse hasn't much of a future in the United States but the number of saddle horses is increasing all over the country, Dr. T. A. Sigler, of Greencastle, Ind., told the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Horseowners have become so scarce, Dr. Sigler reported, that they are being used like circuit riders in the early days. The Horse and Mule association, he said, is sponsoring the training of traveling blacksmiths to meet the country's needs. This system now is in operation in Michigan and will be started soon in New Jersey and California.

The aftermath of World War II with high grain prices and the difficulty of getting farm labor, caused many small farmers to turn from horses to tractors. Draft

There are about 850,000 saddle horses in the United States. Half a million of them are on western ranches. There are about 150,000 in cities and towns and about 200,000 on farms and plantations, Dr. Sigler reported.

Outlook For Petroleum Is Little Better

Washington—(AP)—The overall petroleum outlook was described by the house interstate commerce committee as more favorable for this winter than last. At the same time, the group cautioned against "unrestricted use of petroleum products."

Moreover, Committee Chairman Wolpert (R-NJ), in a report filed with the house, proposed a complete review of the nation's ability to meet oil requirements of the foreign recovery program "without damaging our own economy."

Wolpert also voiced concern "with the present ability of our national transportation system to meet any emergency which unfortunately might be thrust upon it, just as we are concerned with the readiness for defense of our fuel and energy industries."

While the immediate petroleum outlook has improved, the report said the committee views the long-range aspects "with continued concern, especially in the light of continued uncertainty in world affairs and our ability to cope with any national emergency."

Wolpert said: "When we think of expanding our petroleum supplies we are faced with the necessity of becoming increasingly dependent upon outside sources and this is interwoven with international politics and the national defense position. It is certain that if we have to depend on imports they must be from some location in which we can have reasonable certainty of continuance."

"This means adequate transportation, and it means a normal, healthy maintained domestic petroleum industry."

Decrease In Draft Horses Is Reported

San Francisco—(AP)—The work horse hasn't much of a future in the United States but the number of saddle horses is increasing all over the country. Dr. T. A. Sigler, of Greencastle, Ind., told the American Veterinary Medical association.

Horseowners have become so scarce, Dr. Sigler reported, that they are being used like circuit riders in the early days. The Horse and Mule association, he said, is sponsoring the training of traveling blacksmiths to meet the country's needs. This system now is in operation in Michigan and will be started soon in New Jersey and California.

The aftermath of World War II with high grain prices and the difficulty of getting farm labor, caused many small farmers to turn from horses to tractors. Draft

Buyer Resistance to Auto Purchasing Is Not Apparent

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit—(P)—If the higher auto price line has inspired buyer resistance anywhere it is not apparent at the factories.

Reports to the company home offices tell of increasing demand for all popular makes. Meanwhile further advances are expected to follow the Ford increases of this week. The $75 Ford boost was the second by that manufacturer in less than two months.

The $5 reduction Ford made on the six-cylinder business coupe enables him to claim the lowest priced car among the industry's "big three." The cut brings it a couple of dollars below Chevrolet's lowest price similar models.

Right now the car makers are worried about production rather than reaction to price increases. Most auto manufacturers are in short supply of such vital elements as crankshafts, engine blocks, sheet metal and castings.

Hudson, which has been making 700 cars a day, was closed all this week because it lacked castings. No date has been set for re-opening Packard just getting into its production stride after much difficulty with materials, closed last night for a week due to shortages of numerous items.

The Packard shutdown cuts another 500 units from the industry's daily output.

Reo Motors closed its Lansing, Mich., bus and truck assembly lines earlier this week because it ran out of cylinder blocks.

Other companies reportedly are operating on short stocks of many items.

The factories this week built about 51,500 passenger cars and 26,000 trucks. This compares with the previous week's output of approximately 86,500 cars and 26,000 trucks.

Most of the industry's shortages result from supplier plant strikes. As long as these continue there is little chance for a substantial upturn in production, although some car makers have found alternate sources for some items.

The tool and die plants are stepping up work on new model facilities. Aside from Nash and Kaiser-Frazer, however, few 1949 models are likely to appear before the year end.

Nash closed its assembly lines this week to switch over to its 1949 cars and K-F plans to show new models to distributors late this month. The Nash factories are scheduled to reopen on Sept. 7 with what company officials have described as completely redesigned cars.

The other car builders quite generally are behind original schedules for their 1948 models and have had to delay new model programs. There will be considerable 1949 car production late in November or early December, but in most instances these vehicles will not be formally introduced until mid-January.

Most, if not all, General Motors 1949 models may get their initial showing in January at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. GM has contracted for space there for an automobile show of its own at that time.

Ford used the same site in June for the initial public showing of its 1949 models.

What the various car makers are planning in new model features still is a secret. The changes, of course, are expected to be substantial. This is indicated in the volume of new tool and die work

Movies Will Be Factor In Penn'a Week

Harrisburg—The state-wide observance of Pennsylvania Week, Sept. 26 through Oct. 2, again will have the active support of the motion picture industry, it was disclosed today by Mrs. Edna Carroll, Philadelphia, chairman of the Motion Picture Committee for Pennsylvania Week.

Mrs. Carroll said that film distributors of both the eastern and western areas of the State have held meetings to discuss special plans for Pennsylvania Week, and that letters are being sent to 1500 theaters throughout the State asking their cooperation in the Pennsylvania Week program.

Representatives of the film industry have been named to serve on the Pennsylvania Week area committees for each of the six regional subdivisions of the State.

They are: Northwest area, Victor Weschler, of the Colonial Theatre, Erie; Southwest, M. A. Silver, of Warner Theatres, Pittsburgh; North Central, Larry Woodin, of the Arcadia Theatre, Wellsboro; South Central, Robert Sidman, of the Senate Theatre, Harrisburg; Northeast, J. J. O'Leary, of the Cornerford-Public Theatres, Scranton, and Southeast, Sidney Samuelson, of the Allied Independent Theatre Owners, Inc., Philadelphia.

Mrs. Carroll said that the film industry in Pennsylvania is preparing a special press book with specific suggestions for theatre participation in the Pennsylvania Week program, and that several film companies have indicated that they are producing special film shorts for release during Pennsylvania Week.

DEAD HORSE BUT NOT A DEAD LOSS

Del Mar, Calif.—(P)—When Direct Express, top racing horse, dropped dead on the training track at Del Mar, recently, it was not a complete loss to Owner Fred B. Greenley of Harrington, Del.

Three weeks before Direct Express died, a prominent Illinois breeding farm owner attempted to buy him from Greenley for $50,000.

E. L. Whitehead, another horseman and representative of an eastern insurance company, negotiated the deal. Unable to effect the purchase, he talked Greenley into buying a $40,000 insurance policy on the horse.

Buick reports this week that of 150,680 cars built in the first seven months of this year 25,136 were roadmaster models equipped with the new transmission. Production of the "Dynaflo" transmission has been stepped up steadily and now exceeds 400 a day.

New Code Relaxes Contract Bridge Rules On October 1

By BETTY PROSSER

Chicago—(P)—The game of contract bridge is going to change on Oct. 1, but many bridge players will never know it.

A committee of British and American bridge experts has been studying the rules of the game for a year and a half, and has come up with a new international contract bridge code which was tested recently at the semi-annual summer national world bridge tournament here.

The new code will be officially adopted Oct. 1—a date set arbitrarily by the National Laws Commission of the American Contract Bridge League so that publishers of the laws could have sufficient advance notice to put out a new batch of rule books.

The new laws, according to one of the formulators, Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, of New York, chairman of the board of the American Contract Bridge League, will do little to change the game, except:

"The code was prepared to present the old laws more clearly and in a more logical sequence than had previously been the case, and to mitigate certain penalties which tended to impose certain hardships on players based largely on technicalities."

In other words, the rules aren't quite so strict as they were before. Suppose you are a housewife who meets once a month with the girls to play a little bridge.

In the midst of a heated discussion on the high cost of just about everything, say that you lead a card out of turn. What happens? In all probability, one of the girls will remark, "It's not your turn, dear," and, thus corrected, the play lurches on.

The new rules won't affect this type of bridge game, chiefly because the old rules didn't affect it much either.

But if you're a dyed-in-the-wool bridge shark, playing with three others of your species, and you lead out of turn—

Well, under the old rules the declarer—that's the man who got the bid on the hand—could then tell you which suit to lead or, if he chose, prohibit the lead of any one suit.

Under the new code the card out of turn merely becomes an exposed card. You leave it lying face up on the table and must play it at the first opportunity. "The declarer may, if he wishes, forbid the lead of that particular suit, but that suit only."

That's a big change to a tournament bridge player.

Here are some other major changes:

The bid out of turn laws have been simplified. Under the previous code, when there was a bid out of turn the severity of the penalty depended upon where the errant bidder sat. Under the new laws, if you bid out of turn your partner is simply barred from bidding for the rest of that hand.

The laws regarding the insufficient bid, says Von Zedtwitz, have been rewritten "so as to mitigate the penalties on the one hand and give the insufficient bidder protection on the other."

The new code says that you are allowed to pass after an insufficient bid, but that if you elect to do so, your partner may not bid that hand and the opponents, if they are declarers, may call the lead. That's a little less stringent. "If, however, you made the bid sufficient in the same suit at the lowest possible level, your partner suffers no penalty. If you made a different bid, including a jump bid in the same suit, your partner is barred from bidding for the rest of the hand.

Another change says that the dummy now may warn his partner against leading from the wrong hand. Before, if he did, his opponent could decide which hand they wanted the lead to come from.

New Code Relaxes Contract Bridge Rules On October 1

By BETTY PROSSER

Chicago—(P) The game of contract bridge is going to change on Oct. 1, but many bridge players will never know it. A committee of British and American bridge experts has been studying the rules of the game for a year and a half, and has come up with a new international contract bridge code which was tested recently at the semi-annual summer national world bridge tournament here.

The new code will be officially adopted Oct. 1—a date set arbitrarily by the National Laws Commission of the American Contract Bridge League so that publishers of the laws could have sufficient advance notice to put out a new batch of rule books.

The new laws, according to one of their formulators, Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, of New York, chairman of the board of the American Contract Bridge League, will do little to change the game, except:

"The code was prepared to present the old laws more clearly and in a more logical sequence than had previously been the case, and to mitigate certain penalties which tended to impose certain hardships on players based largely on technicalities."

In other words, the rules aren't quite so strict as they were before. Suppose you are a housewife who meets once a month with the girls to play a little bridge.

In the midst of a heated discussion on the high cost of just about everything, say that you lead a card out of turn. What happens?

In all probability, one of the girls will remark, "It's not your turn, dear," and, thus corrected the play lurches on.

The new rules won't affect this type of bridge game, chiefly because the old rules didn't affect it much either.

But if you're a dyed-in-the-wool bridge shark, playing with three others of your species, and you lead out of turn—

Well, under the old rules the declarer—that's the man who got the bid on the hand—could then tell you which suit to lead or, if he chose, prohibit the lead of any one suit.

Under the new code the card out of turn merely becomes an exposed card. You leave it lying face upward on the table and must play it at the first opportunity.

The declarer may, if he wishes, forbid the lead of that particular suit, but that suit only.

"That's a big chance to a tournament bridge player."

Here are some other major changes:

The bid out of turn laws have been simplified. Under the previous code, when there was a bid out of turn the severity of the penalty depended upon where the errant bidder sat. Under the new laws, if you bid out of turn your partner is simply barred from bidding for the rest of that hand.

The laws regarding the insufficient bid, says Von Zedtwitz, have been rewritten "so as to mitigate the penalties on the one hand and give the insufficient bidder protection on the other."

The new code says that you are allowed to pass after an insufficient bid, but that if you elect to do so, your partner may not bid that hand and the opponents, if they are declarers, may call the lead. That's a little less stringent.

"If, however, you made the bid sufficient in the same suit at the lowest possible level, your partner suffers no penalty. If you made except:

"The code was prepared to present the old laws more clearly and in a more logical sequence than had previously been the case, and to mitigate certain penalties which tended to impose certain hardships on players based largely on technicalities."

In other words, the rules aren't quite so strict as they were before. Suppose you are a housewife who meets once a month with the girls to play a little bridge.

In the midst of a heated discussion on the high cost of just about everything, say that you lead a card out of turn. What happens?

Mrs. Deusing Has Low Field Score Against Jamestown

Mrs. John Deusing, apparently oblivious of the inclement weather which has greeted most of the matches with out of town players at the Corewango Valley Country Club, led the field in the match with Moonbrook players from Jamestown with a neat 75 net, a margin of five under the 80 registered by Mrs. Hansen of Jamestown. Mrs. Hansen's 85 was low gross for the field.

Equally good mudders were the following: Jamestown—Division One, first low net, Mrs. Hansen; second low net, Mrs. Verblaw; third low net, Mrs. Hough. Division Two, first low net, Mrs. Anderson; second low net, Mrs. Egglest; third low net, Mrs. Bailey. Mrs. Weeks won the award for the most sixes, with nine, and Mrs. Gifford Heyward, Sr., had the fewest putts.

Warren—Mrs. Deusing had first low net; Mrs. Fudthart, second; and Mrs. Baughart, third. Mrs. Keller had the fewest putts for Warren.

Several of the visitors who got off to a late start were rained out, so a nine-hole event was staged for them, by Mrs. Olsen of Jamestown winning low net in that class.

Stands Sunday, August 22, the local women compete, in three divisions, in a two-day handicap tournament. On Tuesday there will be a surprise tourney; on Wednesday the golfers will journey to Jamestown for an invitation tourney with unlimited handicaps, and on Thursday, August 26, the North western Pennsylvania Golf Association meets in Erie, where the handicap limit is 45.

The Marconi Bridge Club will be host to the Ny-Penn Bridge Unit of the American Contract Bridge League Sunday afternoon at the Marconi Outing Club, the unit being comprised of clubs in Jamestown, Kane, Salamanca, Olean and Warren.

There will be a single session tournament starting at 2 p. m., with dinner following. Reservations are being received from the towns mentioned and indications point that about 20 tables will participate.

Jamestown and Kane have already entertained the players from the unit, and some time next month, Salamanca will be the host. Officers of the unit are Mrs. Glenn Jones, of Jamestown, president; M. A. Kornreich, of Warren, vice president; and Mrs. William Morrissey, of Salamanca, secretary. Conrad Nelson, of Jamestown, is treasurer and will act as tournament director.

These parties have proved very popular and are designed that players in surrounding communities may become better acquainted with each other.

The local club is also working Tournament, which will ehndled on plans for its annual Warren Tournament, which will be held in September and has become an annual institution in this section of the state.

Mrs. Deusing Has Low Field Score Against Jamestown

Mrs. John Deusing, apparently oblivious of the inclement weather which has greeted most of the matches with out of town players at the Conewango Valley Country Club, led the field in the match with Moonbrook players from Jamestown with a neat 70 net, a margin of five under the 80 registered by Mrs. Hansen of Jamestown. Mrs. Hansen's 85 was low gross for the field.

Equally good mudders were the following: Jamestown—Division
One, first low net Mrs. Hansen; second low net, Mrs. Verblaw;
third low net, Mrs. Hough. Division Two, first low net, Mrs. Anderson; second low net, Mrs. Eggles; third low net, Mrs. Bailey.
Mrs. Weeks won the award for the most sixes, with nine, and Mrs.
Gifford Heyward, Sr., had the fewest putts.

Warren—Mrs. Deusing had first low net; Mrs. Fuellhart, second, and Mrs. Banghart, third. Mrs.
Keller had the fewest putts for Warren.

Several of the visitors who got off to a late start were rained out, so a nine-hole event was staged for them, with Mrs. Olsen of Jamestown winning low net in that class.

Starting Sunday, August 22, the local women compete, in three divisions, in a two-day handicap tournament. On Tuesday there will be a surprise tourney; on Wednesday the golfers will journey to Jamestown for an invitation tourney with unlimited handicaps, and on Thursday, August 26, the Northwestern Pennsylvania Golf Association meets in Erie, where the handicap limit is 45.

Bridge Club To Be Host Sunday For Unit Party

The Marconi Bridge Club will be host to the Ny-Penn Bridge Unit of the American Contract Bridge League Sunday afternoon at the Marconi Outing Club, the unit being comprised of clubs in Jamestown, Kane, Salamanca, Olean and Warren.

There will be a single session tournament starting at 2 p. m., with dinner following. Reservations are being received from the towns mentioned and indications point that about 20 tables will participate.

Jamestown and Kane have already entertained the players from the unit, and some time next month, Salamanca will be the host.
Officers of the unit are Mrs.
Glenn Jobes, of Jamestown, president; M. A. Kornreich, of Warren, vice president; and Mrs. William Morrissey, of Salamanca, secretary. Conrad Nelson, of Jamestown, is treasurer and will act as tournament director.

These parties have proved very popular and are designed that players in surrounding communities may become better acquainted with each other.

The local club is also working tournament, which will be held on plans for its annual Warren Tournament, which will be held in September and has become an annual institution in this section of the state.

Eastern Wedding Is of Local Interest

A great many in Warren and vicinity will read with interest the following article taken from the Nantucket, Mass., Inquirer and Mirror:

On Wednesday, August 11, at noon, was held the wedding of Alexander Blair Wheeler, of Pasadena, Cal., son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Reginald Wheeler, of New York and St. Louis, and Miss Inga Van Vooren, daughter of Mrs. Edward J. Van Vooren, of Chicago, Ill.

The ceremony was performed in the First Congregational church of Nantucket by Rev. Claude Bond, pastor of the church, and Dr. Wheeler, father of the bridegroom. A brother of the groom, Nelson P. Wheeler, III, was best man.

A wedding breakfast for members of the family was held at the Gordon Folger Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler left on the 2:30 a. m. train for a wedding trip throughout New England before returning to California, where Mr. Wheeler has an interest in the East Long Beach Airport.

"Sandy" Wheeler was a fighter pilot in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II, and during this summer has served as a flight instructor in the Nohader Air Service. Two years ago at the dedication services at the Nantucket Memorial Airport, he made an exhibition parachute jump. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler met when they were both college students in California.

WILLIAM HUCKABONE FAMILY GATHERING

Approximately 150 relatives and friends attended the William Huckabone reunion held at the Hi-La Sportsmen's Club in DeYoung. In attendance were Mr. Huckabone's two daughters and ten sons, their husbands and wives and most of his 46 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. There were also a number of relatives from Cleveland, O., Cold Brook, Deansboro, Newport, Middleville, Camden, Clyde and Niagara Falls, N. Y., Brockway and Reynoldsville. The day was a huge success, with singing, dancing and special selections by a violin artist. Accompanying the musicians were two members of the family, Simon and Theodore Huckabone. Calling for the square dancing was by the singing caller, Ernest Huckabone. The highlight of the afternoon was an amusing ball game, for which no definite score seemed available. The day was brought to a close with the forming of a large friendship circle, with Albert Huckabone leading the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by The Lord's Prayer.

Eastern Wedding Is of Local Interest

A great many in Warren and vicinity will read with interest the following article taken from the Nantucket, Mass., Inquirer and Mirror:

On Wednesday, August 11, at noon, was held the wedding of Alexander Blair Wheeler, of Pasadena, Cal., son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Reginald Wheeler, of New York and Siasconset, and Miss Inga Van Vooren, daughter of Mrs. Edward J. Van Vooren, of Chicago, Ill.

The ceremony was performed in the First Congregational church of Nantucket by Rev. Claude Bond, pastor of the church, and Dr. Wheeler, father of the bridegroom. A brother of the groom, Nelson P. Wheeler, III, was best man. A wedding breakfast for members of the family was held at the Gordon Folger Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler left on the 2:30 boat for a wedding trip throughout New England before returning to California, where Mr. Wheeler has an interest in the East Long Beach Airport.

"Sandy" Wheeler was a fighter pilot in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II, and during this summer has served as a flight instructor in the Nantucket Memorial Airport, he made an exhibition parachute jump.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler met when they were both college students in California.

WILLIAM HUCKABONE FAMILY GATHERING

Approximately 150 relatives and friends attended the William Huckabone reunion held at the Hi-La Sportsmen's Club in DeYoung. In attendance were Mr. Huckabone's two daughters and ten sons, their husbands and wives and most of his 48 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. There were also a number of relatives from Cleveland, O.; Cold Brook, Deansboro, Newport, Middleville, Camden, Clyde and Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Brockway and Reynoldsville.

The day was a huge success, with singing, dancing and special selections by a violin artist. Accompanying the musicians were two members of the family, Simon and Theodore Huckabone. Calling for the square dancing was by the singing caller, Ernest Huckabone. The highlight of the afternoon was an amusing ball game, for which no definite score seemed available. The day was brought to a close with the forming of a large friendship circle, with Albert Huckabone leading the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by The Lord's Prayer.

A MAN IN THE HOUSE

By Florence Stuart

Chapter 15

SO Ted Eggleston moved in to live with the Whittiers, and if there was one thing that pleased Jane more than another, at the start, it was that Carl seemed to like him so well. She had worried a little about that. Ted was, and anyone could tell it just to meet him, all the things that Carl never had been.

She had been afraid that Carl might put Ted down as a pretty-boy charmer and decide he didn't want that sort of fellow around the house. But when she tried to feel Carl out, approaching the subject in a rather round-about way, "Our Ted certainly knows how to turn on the charm around the girls, doesn't he?" Carl simply laughed.

"Ted's all right," he said. "He's a nice kid."

"Not such a kid. Carl. He went through three years of war, saw some of the toughest fighting in the Pacific. And he's only a few years younger than you are."

"He's still just a kid. Maybe he always will be. You can't always measure age by years and experiences, Jane. It's what impression the years and the experiences have left on you. They seem to have passed Ted over very lightly, unless he's deeper than we think and is burying things inside himself. He may grow up later on, find himself, learn a more solid approach to life. However, he's an extremely likeable boy and I enjoy having him around the house. Don't you?"

"Yes," Jane said. "I do. I think it's swell having him here. If you do."

"Good," Carl said. "I'm perfectly satisfied. In fact, it's something of a relief to me in a way, having Ted here. I get so swamped with details, I have to spend so many evenings working if I'm ever to get the material together for that book. It's sometimes worried me that I have so little time to amuse you or take you out. Ted seems to like to hang around the house evenings and he's company for you. And you seem to enjoy him."

FROM the day that Ted moved in, there began to be a subtle change in Jane. A barely noticeable at first, unless one was watching her very closely. She wasn't conscious of it herself. At least not at first.

For one thing, she laughed more easily and much more often than she had in a long time. Well, that wasn't true. She had never laughed so much as she did now. Ted, actually setting out to do the housework!

Wonder of wonders, he really could manipulate a vacuum cleaner. And what's more, he seemed to enjoy doing it. Jane couldn't imagine how he had ever worked out his college schedule to leave so much free time. But he swore he wasn't skipping classes, and he showed her his list of class hours to prove it.

Saturdays he had free, the whole day. And Wednesday afternoons, and odd hours in between. Wednesday, he thought, was a good day for the cleaning. Because no one else ever cleaned on Wednesdays, and he liked to be different.

"Why," he demanded solemnly, "do people always clean on Fridays or Saturdays?"

"Some do it on Mondays," Jane informed him.

"Well, there you are. Fridays, Saturdays, or Mondays. And I'm not even sure you know what you're talking about. Monday, my pretty little dear, is wash day."

And why? Habit. People form a habit, and it goes on generation after generation, and no one ever stops to ask themselves why. Well, you and I are going to change all that. We're going to set a new pattern. Therefore, in this establishment, Wednesdays will be cleaning day. And Saturday we go after the dirty linen."

"You fool," Jane giggled. "Honestly, Ted, you're the craziest thing I know. I wasn't serious about having you help with the housework. I don't want you to."

"Well, I want to," Ted said. "And that settles that. Good Lord," he added, pretending to become quite heated on the subject, "don't you want to keep your hands soft and glamorous? Don't you want to keep them satiny smooth, lovely as rose petals against your husband's whiskers? Do you suppose that wonderful profanity would ever have fallen in love with you if your fingers had scratched? Do you? Just tell me that. Scratchy fingers. Ugh!" Ted made a quite dreadful face.

Jane sat down on a floor cushion and went weak with laughter. "Honestly, Ted," she said. "Honestly, Ted, you're a screwball, or did you want to put yourself out?"

"What do you think?"

"He was cute when he went to work with the vacuum cleaner. He could run it with one hand while he rolled and lit a cigarette with the other. Jane couldn't imagine how he did it. "You must teach me to do that," she said. "Rolling the cigarette in your mouth. With one hand. Not that I want to roll my own, even with two hands. But it would be a nice trick to know."

Ted winked at her. "I know a lot of other nice tricks, beautiful."

Chapter 16

TED liked to work around the house.

Once he said, grinning: "The devil finds work for idle hands to do."

Jane burst out laughing. "You sound like Aunt Mae. She's always quoting some moth-eaten platitude."

"I'd like to meet your Aunt Mae," Ted said politely. "She must be quite an interesting character."

"Oh, she disapproves of you already."

"Disapproves of me? How come?"

"That is, she disapproves of her having you in the house. Aunt Mae thinks it's a disgrace to take a roomer."

"Well, I'm a paying guest, aren't I? I pay with good hard cash. And the sweat of my brow besides."

"But what Aunt Mae disapproves of most—" Jane wrinkled her nose—"she thinks you might want to make love to me."

"Well, Ted said matter of factly, "I do want to. Naturally. I've wanted to since the first minute I set eyes on you. I haven't done anything about it," he added, "thinking as how you might slug me if I tried it."

"And you're so right!" Jane darted a quick grin at him. "You're so terribly, terribly right."

"You don't want me to, then. Is that definite, beautiful? Or is it subject to change at some future date?"

"Silly. Of course I can't want it. And look, Ted, let's not get on that subject."

"Why not? Personally, I've always thought making love was an excellent subject for discussion. No telling where it will lead. You afraid to talk about it?"

"Of course I'm not afraid."

And Jane said firmly, "It isn't going to lead us anywhere because we aren't going to talk about it. Not you and I. You save your discussions of love for some of those thrill-hungry co-eds who are always calling you on the telephone. And oh, that reminds me—yesterday evening some girl called and left her phone number so you could call her back. I forgot to tell you. Do you know a girl named—well, Chick, it sounded like."

Ted yawned. "Oh, Her. Sure I know Chick." He sounded utterly bored at the mere thought of her.

Jane laughed. "Well, how about some of the other sweet young things who phone you?" she said. "Honestly, Ted, this phone has done more business during the month you've been here than in the whole year. Those girls call and call, but you never bother to call them back. You never date any of them. Why don't you, Ted?"

So that was the day he took a few minutes off from clowning and talked quite seriously.

HE balanced himself against a chair arm and lit a cigarette. "I don't bother with them because I'm not interested in any of them, Jane. They're all just—well, school kids. They look grown up but they talk and act like babies."

"But, Ted, that sounds odd, coming from you. After all these girls are college girls, not so terribly young. Not too young for you, I'd say. And after all, you—"

She hesitated, and Ted gave her an odd look. "Go on," he said. "I know what you want to say. That I'm pretty much of a screwball myself. But after all, beautiful, I have been through a rotten, nasty, tough little war. The toughest war in all time."

Town With Historical Past Brightened By Huge Bequest

By ELAINE KAHN

Perryopolis—(A)—This western Pennsylvania mine town whose chief claim to glory was its historical past had a bright future today and an inheritance of uncounted millions.

George Washington once owned more than 1000 acres of its land and personally suggested the plan of the town—like the spokes of a wheel.

But when the hamlet tried to restore Washington's flour mill several years ago, the citizens couldn't raise enough money. The old mill collapsed, leaving only ruins.

Today Perryopolis—proudly named for Commodore Oliver Perry—has lots of money. Just how much it won't know until the lawyers and executors get through counting the estate of Mrs. Mary Fuller Frazier of Philadelphia.

The last surviving member of the Perryopolis' Fuller family, Mrs. Frazier, died August 6 in a New York hospital at the age of 83. She left all but $210,000 of her vast estate to the town for public improvements.

Estimates of the legacy range from five to ten million dollars.

Mrs. Frazier, the divorced wife of Johnson Miller Frazies, one-time manager of Philadelphia's Bellevue-Straford hotel, inherited nearly $8,000,000 in personal property and real estate from her uncle, Alfred M. Fuller in 1918.

Additional millions came to her in 1934 on the death of a cousin, Alice Fuller.

Howard Adams, 63, vice president of the Perryopolis First National Bank who said he had frequent telephone conversations with Mrs. Frazier regarding her will, declined comment.

"She was a very capable business woman,"

Alice Fuller is remembered by residents as a woman who used oil lamps rather than install electricity and who refused to have a telephone in her modestly furnished home.

Perryopolis is situated on a main highway, 30 miles from Pittsburgh amidst an agricultural countryside. Most of its 1,300 residents are miners, employed in pits of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., and Republic Steel Corp.

Mrs. Frazier returned to the town for the first time in 30 years a week ago when she was buried in the 50-year-old gray stone family Mausoleum atop a hill in Washington cemetery.

Boys Having A Good Time Despite Rain

Youngsville, where guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Nulph Saturday evening. Benton Nulph and Dorothy Jeanne Nulph of Scotch Hill and Mrs. Rebecca Hall, of Leeper, spent Thursday at the Nulph home. They were accompanied home by Miss Margaret Nulph, who has been visiting her brother for several days.

Mrs. Werner Nyberg celebrated her birthday at a family dinner Sunday. Besides the family at home, Miss Verna Nyberg, of Kane, Miss Elsa Nyberg, of Erie, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, of Youngsville, were present.

Guests and callers at the Clinton Johnson home Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. John Murtaugh, of Fredonia, N. Y.; Miss Grady, from Peterborough, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy of Corry.

Fire Victim Honored With Gift Shower

Clarendon, Aug. 19.—Neighbors and friends of Mrs. Florence Spence surprised her with a kitchen shower held at the home of Mrs. Anna Keifer. Mrs. Spence, whose home was burned a few years ago, is going to occupy one of the apartments in the Maryv Campbell house on Main street, recently redecorated and made over into two apartments. A pleasant social evening was concluded with a shower of useful gifts for the honored guest and refreshments served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bailey and son, from Canada, are spending some time visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Louise Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Messersmith, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Stephenson, Sharon, spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kipler, Buffalo, spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Maude Cole, in Stoneham.

Richard Cousineau, Dayton, O., is spending a couple of weeks visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. H.

Mrs. Josephine Garber, Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell and little daughter, Titusville, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Naldo Garber.

Mrs. Flossie Larsen will entertain the Thrifty Club at her home Thursday evening.

Friends of Mrs. Mabel Sharp will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the Kane Hospital, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Lobdell and Mrs. Dale Meddock, have left for a motor trip to Los Angeles, Calif., where they expect to visit Mrs. Charles Lobdell's sister. They expect to be gone about a month.

Lawrence Irwin, Seio, N. Y., spent a couple of days this week visiting old friends and neighbors here.

Rev. and Mrs. Grant Mottern have returned home after having enjoyed a two weeks vacation.

"Oh, I know, Ted. I didn't mean."

"I've seen men dying around me like flies. I've heard men screaming in pain, and I've seen mild quiet little guys turn into brutes before my eyes, and I've learned to shoot men down and not feel anything at all while I was doing it."

Jane rose and walked toward him, her eyes bright with sympathy. "Why, Ted," she said, "I never heard you talk like this before."

"No. That's right. You never did."

After a while he seemed to remember the original subject of discussion. "About these little chicks who came after me—well, I don't flatter myself that it's just me. Well, I was trying to tell you why I can't get steamed up over them."

"You see," Ted went on, "they belong to another world. I'm one in which I live. A few years ago, I belonged to their world. But since then I've seen a world they will never see and I can't go back to their world. I don't want to. I don't," Ted said shortly. "I want to be bothered with them."

"I see," Jane said. "I wonder if you do." He caught her hand, clung to it tightly. "I wonder if you see, understand, how much I wish that you weren't married."

"Don't say that, Ted. Don't say it."

"I am saying it. I have a right to say it, because I wish you weren't married, that you were free, that you had the right to try to make your love."

Very gently she withdrew her hand from his. "It wouldn't make any difference, Ted. It wouldn't make a bit of difference."

Town With Historical Past
Brightened By Huge Bequest

By ELAINE KAHN

Perryopolis—(AP)—This western Pennsylvania mine town whose chief claim to glory was its historical past had a bright future today and an inheritance of uncounted millions.

George Washington once owned more than 1600 acres of its land and personally suggested the plan of the town—like the spokes of a wheel.

But when the hamlet tried to restore Washington's flour mill several years ago, the citizens couldn't raise enough money. The old mill collapsed, leaving only ruins.

Today Perryopolis proudly named for Commodore Oliver Perry—has lots of money. Just how much it won't know until the lawyers and executors get through counting the estate of Mrs. Mary Fuller Frazier of Philadelphia.

The last surviving member of the Perryopolis' Fuller family, Mrs. Frazier, died August 6 in a New York hospital at the age of 83. She left all but $210,000 of her vast estate to the town for public improvements.

Estimates of the legacy range from five to ten million dollars.

Youngsville, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Nulph Saturday evening. Benton Nulph and Dorothy Jeanne Nulph of Scotch Hill and Mrs. Rebecca Hall, of Leeper, spent Thursday at the Nulph home. They were accompanied home by Miss Margaret Nulph, who has been visiting her brother for several days.

Mrs. Werner Nyberg celebrated her birthday at a family dinner Sunday. Besides the family at home, Miss Verna Nyberg, of Kane, Miss Elsa Nyberg, of Erie, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, of Youngsville, were present.

Guests and callers at the Clinton Johnson home Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. John Murtaugh, of Fredonia, N. Y.; Miss Grady, from Peterborough, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy of Corry.

Mrs. Frazier, the divorced wife of Johnson Miller Frazies, one-time manager of Philadelphia's Bellevue-Stratford hotel, inherited nearly $8,000,000 in personal property and real estate from her uncle, Alfred M. Fuller, in 1918.

Additional millions came to her in 1934 on the death of a cousin, Alice Fuller.

Howard Adams, 63, vice president of the Perryopolis First National Bank who said he had frequent telephone conversations with Mrs. Frazier regarding her will, declared:

"She was a very capable business woman."

Alice Fuller is remembered by residents as a woman who used oil lamps rather than install electricity and who refused to have a telephone in her modestly furnished home.

Perryopolis is situated on a main highway, 30 miles from Pittsburgh amidst an agricultural countryside. Most of its 1,300 residents are miners, employed in pits of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., and Republic Steel Corp.

Mrs. Frazier returned to the town for the first time in 30 years a week ago when she was buried in the 50-year-old gray stone family Mausoleum atop a hill in Washington cemetery.

Boys Having A Good Time
Despite Rain

Yesterday's rain caused some changes in the activities program at the Lutheran Boys' Camp at Grunderville, but it was a busy day in spite of the weather conditions.

Volley ball and basketball games were played in the recreation hall. The Beavers won two out of three from the Wolves while the Deer took two out of three from the Elks in volleyball.

The Deer beat the Foxes at basketball, 20 to 18. A number of other inside games replaced the baseball and some other "league" contests.

The evening began with a treasure hunt, which was won by Jack Armstrong after a two-hour search. The hunt was followed by a campfire which was held at the mess hall fire place due to the weather.

The campers are working hard to earn their camp "L". To do this they must volunteer for special work, make some handicraft with a jackknife, pass a nature study test, make a map of the camp, learn the nicknames of boys in the barracks, learn the camp creed, the camp hymn, the 24th psalm, the pledge to the flag. Winners of the "L" must also receive the "stuck-up" initiation.

Jim Sturdevant was the first to complete the requirements and was awarded his "L" at the Monday campfire. On Tuesday, the award was given to Martin Carlson, Bradley Gustafson, Jack Cropp, Jack Timm, Don Mimm, and Fred Newmaker.

Last evening the following received the "L": David Glassman, Jack Armstrong, Charles Johnson, Warner Ahlgren, Melvin Peterson, Howard Patch, Stanley Johnson, Stewart Kornreich, Don Smith and Wayne Morris.

A pleasant social evening was concluded with a shower of useful gifts for the honored guest and refreshments served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bailey and son, from Canada, are spending some time visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Louise Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Messersmith, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Stephenson, Sharon, spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kipler, Buffalo, spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Maude Cole, in Stoneham.

Richard Cousineau, Dayton, O., is spending a couple of weeks visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hetrick.

Mrs. Josephine Garber, Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell and little daughter, Titusville, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Naldo Garber.

Mrs. Flossie Larsen will entertain the Thrifty Club at her home Thursday evening.

Friends of Mrs. Mabel Sharp will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the Kane Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Chapman and son, Ashtabula, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lindsley, accompanied by their daughter and husband and grandchild, Corry, were weekend guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. I. G. Hyer.

The regular meeting of the W. S. S. took place Tuesday in the Methodist church parlors, at which time considerable important business was disposed of.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lobdell, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Lobdell and Mrs. Dale Meddock, have left for a motor trip to Los Angeles, Calif., where they expect to visit Mrs. Charles Lobdell's sister. They expect to be gone about a month.

Lawrence Irwin, Scio, N. Y., spent a couple of days this week visiting old friends and neighbors here.

Rev. and Mrs. Grant Mottern have returned home after having enjoyed a two weeks vacation.

A MAN IN THE HOUSE

By Florence Stuart

AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 15

SO Ted Eggleston moved in to live with the Whittiers, and if there was one thing that pleased Jane more than another, at the start, it was that Carl seemed to like him so well. She had worried a little about that. Ted was, and anyone could tell it just to meet him, all the things that Carl never had been.

She had been afraid that Carl might put Ted down as a pretty-boy charmer and decide he didn't want that sort of fellow around the house. But when she tried to approach the subject in a rather round-about way: "Our Ted certainly knows how to turn on the charm around the gals, doesn't he?" Carl simply laughed.

"Ted's all right," he said. "He's a nice kid."

"Not such a kid, Carl. He went through three years of war, saw some of the toughest fighting in the Pacific. And he's only a few years younger than you are."

"He's still just a kid. Maybe he always will be. You can't always measure age by years and experiences, Jane. It's what impression the years and the experiences have left on you. They seem to have passed Ted over very lightly, unless he's deeper than we think and he's burying things inside himself. He may grow up later on, find himself, learn a more adult approach to life. However, he's an extremely likeable boy and I enjoy having him around the house. Don't you?"

"Yes," Jane said. "I do. I think it's swell having him here. If you do."

"Good," Carl said. "I'm perfectly satisfied. In fact, it's something of a relief to me in a way, having Ted here. I get so swamped with details, I have to spend so many evenings working if I'm ever to get the material together for that book. It's sometimes worried me that I have so little time to amuse you or take you out. Ted seems to like to hang around the house evenings and he's company for you. And you seem to enjoy him."

FROM the day that Ted moved in, there began to be a subtle change in Jane, scarcely noticeable at first unless one were watching her very closely. She wasn't conscious of it herself. At least not at first.

For one thing, she laughed more easily and much more often than she had in a long time. Well, that wasn't to be wondered at. How could you help laughing at that idiot, Ted, actually setting out to do the housework!

Wonder of wonders, he really could manipulate a vacuum cleaner. And what's more, he seemed to enjoy doing it. Jane couldn't imagine how he had ever worked out his college schedule to leave so much free time. But he swore he wasn't skipping classes, and he showed her his list of class hours to prove it.

Saturdays he had free, the whole day. And Wednesday afternoons. And odd hours in between. Wednesday, he thought, was a good day for the cleaning. Because no one else ever cleaned on Wednesdays, and he liked to be different.

"Why," he demanded solemnly, "do people always clean on Fridays or Saturdays?"

"Some do it on Mondays," Jane informed him.

"Well, there you are. Fridays, Saturdays, or Mondays. And I'm not even sure you know what you're talking about. Monday, my pretty little dear, is wash day."

And, Jane said firmly, "It isn't going to lead us anywhere but to a fight. You aren't going to talk about it. Not you and I. You save your discussions of love for some of those thrill-hungry cads who are always calling you on the telephone. And, oh, that reminds me—yesterday evening some girl called and left her phone number so you could call her back. I forgot to tell you. Do you know a girl named—well, Chick, it sounded like."

Ted yawned. "Oh, Her. Sure I know Chick." He sounded utterly bored at the mere thought of her.

Jane laughed. "Well, how about some of the other sweet young things who phone you?" she said. "Honestly, Ted, this phone has done more business during the month you've been here than in the whole year. Those girls call and call, but you never bother to call them back. You never date any of them. Why don't you, Ted?"

So that was the day he took a few minutes off from clowning and talked quite seriously.

HE balanced himself against a chair arm and lit a cigarette. "I don't bother with them because I'm not interested in any of them, Jane. They're all just—well, school kids. They look grown up but they talk and act like babies."

Jane said: "But, Ted, that sounds odd, coming from you. After all these girls are college girls, not so terribly young. Not too young for you, I'd say. And after all, you're a grown-up."

She hesitated, and Ted gave her an odd look. "Go on, say it, Jane. I know what you want to say. That I'm pretty much of a screwball myself. But after all, beautiful, I have been through a rotten, nasty, tough little war. The toughest war in all time."

Still More New Car Price Increases Are In Prospect

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor.

Detroit—(AP)—Still more new car price increases are coming in the next few weeks.

Even the manufacturers who recently have made two increases are giving no assurance the price tags will hold for the remainder of the year. And most industry analysts expect a second round of price increases before all the new models are introduced.

The trade experts point out that production costs will take another jump next month when some 5,000 workers receive wage advances under the "sliding scale" agreement that was designed to adjust worker earnings to the cost of living.

There is some speculation concerning Kaiser-Frazer's corporate pricing plans for the new models due for public introduction in October. Nash long ago indicated higher price tags would be on the 1949 models; that even before Chrysler and Ford made their first price hikes.

Every time any car announces price advances predictions pop up from various industries sources that hundreds of thousands of would-be new car buyers will be "priced out of the market."

Prices have been going up steadily and the same predictions have been heard with each price rise but far the industry doesn't seem to have lost any of its market.

It has been said in some quarters that the car industry's profits shown in earnings statements for the first six months of 1948 do not justify more price advances at this time. It is true, however, that the car makers are putting large part of these earnings back to their operations.

The biggest part, of course, goes to pay for the new model re-tooling, the cost of which has soared faster than they have new car prices. Additional millions go into the maintenance of costly engineering research.

Trade circles hear an unconfirmed report that one car maker, with new model ready to put into production is undecided whether to bring it out around the end or definitely postpone the switch-over. It reportedly is considering the fact that without changing a line of its present styling it can sell all the cars it will be able to make for 18 months. Moreover, a model change will involve a heavy production loss.

But the company already has paid for the tools and dies needed for the new model and if there is any delay in putting it into production it probably will be only for a few weeks.

Right now all-out competition in the automotive industry seems long way off. Yet the new model re-tooling of each manufacturer will figure largely in how he fares in a competitive market this autumn. This is particularly true because of the 1949 models will be carried through 1950 or longer with only minor changes.

Ward automotive reports said this week that in its new model planning general motors is considering the overlapping of Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick in certain price fields.

"Competitive merchandising influences currently manifest in Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick price brackets apparently are stated for readjustment, when the Oldsmobile '48' and the Buick series '40' small light cylinder dies are discontinued after New Models are unveiled later this year."

Neither Oldsmobile nor Buick are officially disclosed plans to discontinue any models, although the action reported may Ward's would occasion on surprise in industry quarters.

Still More New Car Price Increases Are In Prospect

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor.

Detroit—(AP)—Still more new car price increases are coming in the next few weeks. Even the manufacturers who recently have made no price increases are giving no assurance the price tags will hold for the remainder of the year. And most industry analysts expect a second round of price increases by General Motors before all new models are introduced. The trade experts point out that production costs will take another jump next month when some 5,000 workers receive wage advances under the "sliding scale" agreement that was designed to adjust worker earnings to the cost of living.

There is some speculation concerning Kaiser-Frazer corporation's plans for the new Nash models due for public introduction in October. Nash long ago indicated higher price tags would be on the 1949 models; that even before Chrysler and Ford made their first price hikes.

Every time any car announces price advances predictions pop up from various industries sources that hundreds of thousands of would-be new car buyers will be "priced out of the market."

Prices have been going up steadily and the same predictions have been heard with each price rise but so far the industry doesn't seem to have lost any of its market.

It has been said in some quarters that the car industry's profits shown in earnings statements for the first six months of 1948 do not justify more price advances at this time. It is true, however, that the car makers are putting a large part of these earnings back to their operations.

The biggest part, of course, goes to pay for the new model re-tooling, the cost of which has soared faster than they have new car prices. Additional millions go into the maintenance of costly engineering research.

Trade circles hear an unconfirmed report that one car maker, with new model ready to put into production is undecided whether to bring it out around the end or definitely postponed the switch-over. It reportedly is considering the fact that without changing a line of its present styling it can sell all the cars it will be able to make for 18 months. Moreover, a model change will involve a heavy production loss.

But the company already has paid for the tools and dies needed for the new model and if there is any delay in putting it into production it probably will be only for a few weeks.

Right now all-out competition in the automotive industry seems long way off. Yet the new model position of each manufacturer will figure largely in how he fares in a competitive market. This is particularly true because of the 1949 models will be carried through 1950 or longer with only minor changes.

Ward automotive reports said this week that in its new model planning general motors is considering the overlapping of Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick in certain price fields. Ward said.

"Competitive merchandising in the automotive industry is becoming more and more important," said Ward. "Oldsmobile and Buick price brackets apparently are slated for adjustment, when the Oldsmobile 68' and the Buick series 40' small light cylinder dies are discontinued after New Models are unveiled later this year."

Neither Oldsmobile nor Buick has officially disclosed plans to discontinue any models, although the action reported may Ward's would occasion on surprise in industry quarters.

Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., entertained at a bathroom shower party Wednesday evening, honoring Miss Doris Beckwith, of Russell, who will become the bride of Robert Stuart on September 3. The evening was spent with contests, with prizes going to Mrs. Ernest Beckwith, Mrs. John Stuart, Miss Beckwith, Mrs. Scott Stuart, Sr., and Cynthia McKay. A two course lunch was served, with favors in pastel colors, and the guest of honor received many nice gifts. Mrs. Stuart was assisted by her sister, Miss Anne Oberg, James-town.

History-Making Filibuster Faces Next Regular Session

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
(For James Marlow)
Washington, (AP)—A history-shattering filibuster will open the next regular session of the senate on January 4 if Republican leaders carry out their plans. "It will be a filibuster to end all filibusters," Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter before leaving the capital. "It may take a month or longer, but it's an issue that should be settled."

Republican leaders not only must retain their present narrow party margin in the senate but also win active support of many Democrats to amend the present senate rules. The Republicans now have 51 seats, the Democrats 45. The change would require a two-thirds vote. Taft and others who want to tighten the rules declare that the national security conceivably might be endangered by filibusters. If a few senators opposed going to war with some nation threatening an invasion they might prevent or at least delay action for benefit of an enemy.

Wheat Crop Much Lower Than Estimate

Harrisburg—Weather conditions favoring spread of black stem and leaf rust, together with damage from Hessian fly, during the month of July reduced the Pennsylvania wheat crop by 3,856,000 bushels according to Federal State Crop Reporting Service estimates released today by the State Department of Agriculture.

Based on the July 15 average price farmers were receiving for new crop wheat, the money loss at $2.67 per bushel was estimated at slightly more than $8,367,000, the Department said.

The survey, made as of August 1, indicated a total Pennsylvania wheat crop of 17,834,000 bushels. This is 4,462,000 bushels less than the 22,296,000 harvested last year, but only 624,000 bushels under the 10-year average, 1937-46. Pennsylvania's smallest wheat crop in recent years was 13,329,000 bushels in 1943.

Hardest hit by rust and fly damage was the southeastern section of the State, the Department said. Yields per acre were so low there that the July 1 average of 22.5 bushels was reduced to 18.5 bushels per acre for the State as a whole. Wheat yields were much better in the northern and western counties.

Oats showed improvement during July, the estimate advancing from 25,542,000 bushels to 27,090,000 bushels. Tobacco is indicated at 87,770,000 pounds and potatoes at 19,075,000 bushels, no change from July 1.

Chin Up, Kiddies! Look At the Opportunities You Have

By ARTHUR EDSON
(For Hal Boyle)

Washington—(P)—My, my, the opportunities a growing boy has nowadays!

When I was a squirt in Monet, there didn't seem to be many chances to choose from.

At various times I seriously considered such interesting careers as driving a delivery truck, strolling on the railroad, or beating a bass drum in a circus band. I don't recall that at any time I ever thought much about working for the U. S. government.

That may have been a mistake. For the government today, with more than 2,000,000 employees, is a world's greatest employer. And boy, or girl, can look forward to being anything from a community management specialist to a zone senior chief cost auditor.

Naturally many of you kiddies just have dreamed of being a community management specialist. Well, the Atomic Energy Commission needs three. They manage the communities at Hanford, Wash.; at Alamos, N. M., and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The zone senior chief cost auditor? As you probably suspected, he works for the government's general accounting office.

Government is so complex and varied there is almost no end to the types of jobs at which the growing boy can aim.

Like to inspect tracks? The Interstate Commerce Commission has a track inspector. He peers at railroad tracks.

Want to be a copyright clearance specialist? See the Library of Congress.

Have a yen to be a chief of estimation and jacket preparation? No, this has nothing to do with gents' clothing. The job is in the government rinting office.

The fledgling astrophysicists in our audience can look forward to trying for a job with the Smithsonian Institution. Or a preservation specialist can busy himself with the U. S. Maritime Commission, preserving boats.

Appropriately, one of the longest titles, Corrective Physical Rehabilitation Specialist, belongs to one of the most serious chores. The Veterans' Administration hires the C.P.R.S., who helps find the correct exercises for wounded veterans.

Your government worries about you all the way. For the Social Security administration has these jobs:

For the baby—Consultant in maternity and infant nursing service.

For the child (good)—Child welfare analyst.

For the child (erring)—Juvenile delinquency consultant.

For the parent (good or erring)—Consultant in parent education.

And when we grow old, the Federal Security Agency totters in. It has a gerontologist, a specialist in the characteristics of old age.

One government job should especially appeal to the young. Over in the Commerce Department there's a man whose chores include counting the nation's annual output of jellybeans.

But whoa, there! Don't plan on that job, kids. I saw it first.

With a quick thrust of its tongue, a chameleon can snare an insect 10 inches away.

'Framed' by Reds

Navy Lieut. Robert Dreher, former assistant naval attaché at Moscow, is shown leaving his home in Washington, D. C. The Soviet newspaper Pravda has charged that Dreher was expelled from Russia last April after being caught stealing secret military information. The U. S. State Department replied that the naval officer was the victim of a frame-up by the Kremlin and Soviet secret police.

How to Smoke Cigar Without Burning Up The Better Half

New York—(P)—The cigar is sending up smoke signals of prosperity—amid some feminine cries of complaint.

Last year 15,500,000 smokers in the United States did away with about 6,500,000 cigars. This June almost 430,000,000 cigars were released to the trade, 11 per cent more than a year ago.

But these figures bring small cheer to many women who persist in the strange delusion that a man who smokes cigars probably also takes opium and eats small children on the half shell.

Why the cigar is as American as the vanishing Redskin. Since Christopher Columbus in 1492 saw his first Indian contentedly puffing away on a stogie, the cigar has enabled the poor man to feel like a king—and the king to feel as much at ease as the commoner.

Yet the cigar smoker today is the victim of a widespread female conspiracy against him. If he lights up his Colorado Claro in an airplane, the stewardess flutters up like an angry butterfly.

"Cigarette smoking only!" she says, frowning away the offending hunk of weed as if it were the birthplace of world contagion.

I know. Lots of times in this way I've lost a ten-cent cigar that still had nine cents to go. And the airplane never refunded either the cigar or the price of a new one.

You stoke up in a friend's house and what often happens? His wife throws open the windows, tucks back the curtains, turns the fan on you—and sits glaring with a baleful eye until you rub out the poor old cigar.

My own wife for some years now has been trying to get me to join the C. A. A.—Cigar Addicts Anonymous. It does no good for me to remind her that she thinks Clark Gable packs terrific he-man glamour, and Gable smokes cigars.

If you are going to try to compare yourself with Clark Gable," says Frances, "let's start from scratch."

Nor does it influence wives to point out that the Duke of Windsor, who did give up a kingdom for love, didn't forsake the fragrance of a good Havana. Why bother to cite other famous cigar lovers—Winston Churchill or American Presidents like Grover Cleveland, Calvin Coolidge or Theodore Roosevelt?

Wives just don't care. Can you calm their ire by reminding them that the American public rewarded Gen. Ulysses S. Grant with 11,000 cigars for capturing Fort Donelson? No, you can't.

Remembering what happened to the fine old lost art of tobacco chewing, the worried cigar institute of America has undertaken a campaign to placate the ladies.

It said a survey disclosed that many women basically object to the way a cigar is usually smoked, rather than to the cigar itself. The institute patriotically denies that a cigar stinks up clothing or a living room—smoke ring for smoke ring—other than cigars. But it gives these etiquette tips to cigar smokers who want to keep the little woman happy:

"(1) Look before you flick—for an ash on the tray is worth two on the vest.

"(2) Puff a good cigar gently. Laying a smoke screen may easily turn the puff that pleases into the cloud that chokes.

"(3) Please—no butts. A collection of unsightly butts parked promiscuously around the house will antagonize the most angelic wife.

"(4) Don't chew the cigar or talk with a Perfecto clamped in the mouth. Cut the cigar with a sharp blade; don't bite off and spit out the end. And light it with a match that has burned off the sulphur. It helps keep the aroma."

There you are, men. Okay? Now light up a big two-for-fifteen Corona deluxe extra hemp special—and watch our wife's face beam in tender pride and understanding. To keep her happy there is one more thing you can do.

Swallow the smoke.

Chin Up, Kiddies! Look At the Opportunities You Have

By ARTHUR EDSON
(For Hal Boyle)

Washington—(P)—My, my, the opportunities a growing boy has nowadays!

When I was a squirt in Monett, Mo., there didn't seem to be many chances to choose from.

At various times I seriously considered such interesting careers as driving a delivery truck, Floreth's Hardware, being a henchman on the railroad, or beating a bass drum in a circus band. I don't recall that at any time I ever thought much about working for the U. S. government.

That may have been a mistake. For the government today, with more than 2,000,000 employees, is a world's greatest employer. And boy, or girl, can look forward to being anything from a community management specialist to zone senior chief cost auditor.

Naturally many of you kiddies just have dreamed of being a community management specialist. Well, the Atomic Energy Commission needs three. They manage the communities at Hanford, Wash.; Los Alamos, N. M., and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The zone senior chief cost auditor? As you probably suspected, general accounting office.

Government is so complex and varied there is almost no end to the types of jobs at which the growing boy can aim.

Like to inspect tracks? The Interstate Commerce Commission is a track inspector. He peers at railroad tracks.

Want to be a copyright clearance specialist? See the Library of Congress.

Have a yen to be a chief of estimation and jacket preparation? No, this has nothing to do with gents' clothing. The job is in the government rinting office.

The fledgling astrophysicists in our audience can look forward to trying for a job with the Smithsonian Institution. Or a preservation specialist can busy himself with the U. S. Maritime Commission, preserving boats.

Appropriately, one of the longest titles, Corrective Physical Rehabilitation Specialist, belongs to one of the most serious chores. The Veterans' Administration hires the C.P.R.S., who helps find the correct exercises for wounded veterans.

Your government worries about you all the way. For the Social Security administration has these jobs:

For the baby—Consultant in maternity and infant nursing service.

For the child (good)—Child welfare analyst.

For the child (erring)—Juvenile delinquency consultant.

For the parent (good or erring)—Consultant in parent education.

And when we grow old, the Federal Security Agency totters in. It has a gerontologist, a specialist in the characteristics of old age.

One government job should especially appeal to the young. Over in the Commerce Department there's a man whose chores include counting the nation's annual output of jellybeans.

But whoa, there! Don't plan on that job, kids. I saw it first.

With a quick thrust of its tongue, a chameleon can snare an insect 10 inches away.

'Framed' by Reds

Navy Lieut. Robert Dreher, former assistant naval attaché at Moscow, is shown leaving his home in Washington, D. C. The Soviet newspaper Pravda has charged that Dreher last April after being caught stealing secret military information. The U. S. State Department replied that the naval officer was the victim of a frame-up by the Kremlin and Soviet secret police.

How to Smoke Cigar Without Burning Up The Better Half

New York—(P)—The cigar is sending up smoke signals of prosperity—amid some feminine cries of complaint.

Last year 15,500,000 smokers in the United States did away with about 6,500,000,000 cigars. This June almost 430,000,000 cigars were released to the trade, 11 per cent more than a year ago.

But these figures bring small cheer to many women who persist in the strange delusion that a man who smokes cigars probably also takes opium and eats small children on the half shell.

Why the cigar is as American as the vanishing Redskin. Since Christopher Columbus in 1492 saw his first Indian contentedly puffing away on a stogie, the cigar has enabled the poor man to feel like a king—and the king to feel as much at ease as the commoner.

Yet the cigar smoker today is the victim of a widespread female conspiracy against him. If he lights up his Colorado Claro in an airplane, the stewardess flutters up like an angry butterfly.

"Cigarette smoking only!" she says, ferrying away the offending punk of weed as if it were the birthplace of world contagion.

I know. Lots of times in this way I've lost a ten-cent cigar that still had nine cents to go. And the airplane never refunded either the cigar or the price of a new one.

You stoke up in a friend's house and what often happens? His wife throws open the windows, ties back the curtains, turns the fan on you—and sits glaring with a baleful eye until you rub out the poor old cigar.

My own wife for some years now has been trying to get me to join the C. A. A.—Cigar Addicts Anonymous. It does no good for me to remind her that she thinks Clark Gable packs terrific he-man glamor, and Gable smokes cigars.

If you are going to try to compare yourself with Clark Gable," says Frances, "Let's start from scratch."

Nor does it influence wives to point out that the Duke of Windsor, who did give up a kingdom for love, didn't forsake the fragrance of a good Havana. Why bother to cite other famous cigar lovers—Winston Churchill or American Presidents like Grover Cleveland, Calvin Coolidge or Theodore Roosevelt?

Wives just don't care. Can you calm their ire by reminding them that the American public rewarded Gen. Ulysses S. Grant with 11,000 cigars for capturing Fort Donelson? No, you can't.

Remembering what happened to the fine old lost art of tobacco chewing, the worried cigar institute of America has undertaken a campaign to placate the ladies.

It said a survey disclosed that many women basically object to the way a cigar is usually smoked, rather than to the cigar itself. The institute patriotically denies that a cigar stinks up clothing or a living room—smoke ring for smoke ring—other than cigars. But it gives these etiquette tips to cigar smokers who want to keep the little woman happy:

"(1) Look before you flick—for an ash on the tray is worth two on the vest.

"(2) Puff a good cigar gently. Laying a smoke screen may easily turn the puff that pleases into the cloud that chokes.

"(3) Please—no butts. A collection of unsightly butts parked promiscuously around the house will antagonize the most angelic wife.

"(4) Don't chew the cigar or talk with a Perfecto clamped in the mouth. Cut the cigar with a sharp blade; don't bite off and spit out the end. And light it with a match that has burned off the sulphur. It helps keep the aroma."

There you are, men. Okay? Now light up a big two-for-fifteen Corona deluxe extra hemp special—and watch our wife's face beam in tender pride and understanding. To keep her happy there is one more thing you can do.

Swallow the smoke.

The two clubs are sponsoring the appearance of the United States Marine Band in Jamestown High School in October. President John Hart of the Junior Chamber and Fred Abbott of the Marines extended an invitation to Warren members to attend the concert and stated that tickets for the outstanding event will be on sale in Warren.

President Chuck Tranter announced that the Warren chapter will sponsor a public dance to be held in the Womens Club Thanksgiving Night. John Newkirk, chairman of the event with the following on his committee: Len Schultz, Jack McDonald, Lawrence Johnson, John Moore and Chuck Blackman.

There was also a discussion last evening about the possibility of the local club sponsoring an air show in Warren with the cooperation of the Warren Aviation Club. The Jamestown club is sponsoring the air show in their city this Sunday afternoon and their representatives told the membership last night how they carried on the project.

The visitors from Jamestown last evening included John Hart, president, Harley Bloomstran, Charles Harrod, Jack Martin and Frank Taylor. Fred Abbott and Paul Johnson represented the Marine Corps League.

Duff Speaks At Crawford County Outing

Governor James M. Duff and Congressman L. H. Gavin headed the list of distinguished speakers at the annual picnic of the Crawford County Republican Club held Wednesday at the Crawford county fair grounds in Meadville. It was Duff's first appearance in Crawford county since he took office two years ago.

In his address, the governor said that a western extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike to Youngstown would probably be under construction "by this time next year."

Governor Duff said: "My present information is that the extension will be about 50 miles south of Meadville. It will connect the area with the greatest highway system in the world."

The governor added that the state was now engaged in making a survey of the proposed extension between Irwin and Youngstown.

Funds for the eastern extension of the highway to Philadelphia have been appropriated and work will begin within the near future, he added.

The governor also spoke of the mental institutions throughout the state and also the condition of the present highway system which is stated, he said, as one of the finest in the country.

He urged the members of the "Crawford county committee to send a good representation of Republicans back to Harrisburg this fall in order that the proper support may be given to his plans for the state."

Other speakers included State Senator M. Hartley Taylor, of Dauphin county, senate majority leader and state G.O.P. chairman; Congressman Carroll D. Kearns and State Rep. Robert F. Kent, both seeking re-election this fall. F. Perry Egan was the general chairman for the program.

The beautifully decorated table was centered with a wedding cake done in gold and white and flanked by yellow roses, a gift from their children.

The couple also received many other remembrances, including cards and a purse of money.

Fifty guests were in attendance from Cleveland, Jamestown, Russell, Stow, Akeley and Sugar Grove.

Zeitung gave this version a big display, attributing it to "trustworthy Paris sources."

The anti-Communist city administration announced last night it is debating two plans as a solution to the currency mix-up, resulting from circulation here of rival eastern and western marks.

1. To issue an emergency currency for the city.

2. To make the western mark exclusive currency in western Berlin in order to overcome the difficulties caused by the Soviet blocking of eastern mark accounts in the city's western sectors.

In western Berlin both the eastern and western German currencies now are legal. In the Soviet sector only the eastern mark is valid.

Russia's blocking of these east mark accounts has made it virtually impossible for the city government and western sector firms to pay wages, because the west had directed that three-fourths of all salaries were to be paid in eastern marks.

Dewey's strategists evidently are counting on heavy support for him in the rural areas to offset the fact President Truman has made for labor support with his call for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Dewey, still blocking out his campaign plans, talked again yesterday with House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts. A news conference afterwards, Martin replied to a question as to whether he would defend the record of the 80th congress during the campaign: "The 80th congress doesn't need defending. We are going to brag about the 80th congress."

Blast Victim Has Relative In Youngsville

Youngsville, Aug. 19—Mrs. Nettie Ekis has received word that funeral services will be held Friday at New Bethlehem for her brother-in-law, Charles Ekis, who was killed in an explosion at that place on Tuesday. Mr. Ekis, younger brother of her late husband, Clarence Ekis, will be buried in Ridgway.

Mrs. Ekis first received word of his death on Wednesday, and the Times-Mirror carried an Associated Press account of the tragedy on the same evening, under a Butler dateline.

According to the news service report, Mr. Ekis, aged 60, and his wife, Mrs. Nettie Ekis, were working for the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company, was instantly killed from the blast of a ten-inch natural gas line near Prospect, about three hours after the line had been installed under a section of newly-constructed Route 422.

The explosion ripped a hole four feet deep and 15 feet long, shook houses as far as five miles away, and destroyed three trucks and a new caterpillar carry-all valued at $55,000. Total property damage was estimated at $60,000.

Mr. Ekis was a resident of Ridgway, and his wife, Mrs. Nettie Ekis, was a resident of Youngsville. Mr. Ekis was employed by the same utilities firm as a foreman.

Mr. Ekis is survived by his wife, two brothers, one sister, and a number of other relatives and friends, some of whom reside in Youngsville and vicinity.

Raising Fund For "Thumbing" Family

Old Orchard Beach, Me., Aug. 19—(P)—A travel fund is in the making today for the Furios, Corporal Tony, his blonde wife, Marjorie, and their 22 months old son.

Its purpose is to get Mrs. Furio and Tony, Jr., to El Paso, Tex., without any more hitch-hiking.

The corporal hopes they'll have enough—he hasn't found out yet how much he needs—as the family can leave with him Monday. He has to report at Fort Bliss on the 25th.

The fund, started by their friend, Mrs. Magdalene Holland, had reached $15 last night. She was confident there would be more.

The corporal, who used to tend bar at the Old Orchard Country Club and later ran a restaurant at this resort, was reunited with his family yesterday.

Financed by generous Californians and some airline employees, he hastened east by plane and train to make his wife, who is expecting another child, give up any further idea of "thumbing."

Many Attend Store Opening At Youngsville

Youngsville, Aug. 19—The grand opening of the Johnson Brothers' store takes place today, when the first 800 ladies calling at the store were presented with beautiful rosebud favors. Special awards have been planned for the oldest and youngest shoppers and there will be a number of other prizes given away.

The store has been so completely remodeled and made more attractive and convenient for the shopper that it is scarcely recognizable by those who have not viewed progress of the work.

Heavy rain Wednesday caused surface water to flood some of the local streets and sidewalks and also flooded a number of basements about town, including the Methodist church basement.

Mrs. George Peterson, of West Main street, will be hostess Friday at 2:30 p.m. to the local WCTU with Mrs. J. A. Sagerdahl listed as co-hostess. This will be an important meeting as election of officers will be held.

Truman Insists the Loyalty Review Program Success

finite leave before the hearing started.

Mr. Truman said there is a difference between the confidential files of federal employees and their employment records. He made clear once again that the confidential files will not be made available to congressional committees.

It was learned from another source that Whitaker Chambers has not been a witness before a federal grand jury in New York City investigating espionage. Chambers has acknowledged to the house committee that he was a Communist from 1924-1957 and worked with a Communist underground in Washington.

The Justice Department has declined to comment on this in any way, repeating that it will not discuss proceedings still in progress before a grand jury.

Mr. Truman said he could say categorically that the government's loyalty program has been a success.

He added that the justice department has been at work for some time on a proposed new loyalty statute.

He said sharply that he does not want any gag law that does infringe on the bill of rights.

"Do you consider that the house hearings have infringed on the bill of rights?" a reporter asked.

The president replied yes, that he does.

The congressional spy investigators are going ahead with their search for evidence. They said they had lined up three new witnesses for secret testimony before the house committee.

What they are after primarily at this point is not direct testimony about the operations of a Communist underground in Washington before and during the war.

They are concentrating instead on what Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) calls "spadework" designed to help dig up "the truth or the falsity" of the controversy involving Alger Hiss and Whitaker Chambers.

This is a prelude to public hearings, set for next Wednesday, at which Hiss and Chambers will be heard.

Warren Jaycees Sponsoring Club Organizing In Kane

The Northwestern Regional meeting of the Pennsylvania Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held in Warren on Sunday, September 19th with the Warren Jaycees Chamber acting as host. The meeting is open to all local Jaycees and there will be delegations here from Erie, Sharon and Butler headed by State Vice President Carl Hoffman of Sharon. Time and place of the regional session will be announced later.

News of the above meeting was one of many items to come before the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce last evening as it met in regular session at the YMCA. A feature of the evening was a visit by five Jamestown Jaycees and two members of the Jamestown Marine Corps League.

The two clubs are sponsoring the appearance of the United States Marine Band in Jamestown High School in October. President John Hart of the Junior Chamber and Fred Abbott of the Marines extended an invitation to Warren members to attend the concert and stated that tickets for the outstanding event will be on sale in Warren.

President Chuck Tranter announced that the Warren chapter will sponsor a public dance to be held in the Women's Club on Thursday Night, John Newmaker is giving Night. John Newmaker is giving Night. John Newmaker is giving Night.

The decision was made last evening to sponsor the formation of a Junior Chamber organization in Kane and next Tuesday was set as the date for the first meeting at that community. An extension committee of Warren Jaycees will go to Kane that evening and will open the meeting to be held for the young men of that city.

The formation of the Junior Chamber Auxiliary is going forward rapidly and the first membership meeting has been scheduled for the 3rd Monday of September in the YMCA. Wives of all Jaycee members are invited to this meeting at which time a constitution will be adopted.

There was also a discussion last evening about the possibility of the local club sponsoring an air show in Warren with the cooperation of the Warren Aviation Club. The Jamestown club is sponsoring an air show in their city this Sunday afternoon and their representatives told the membership last night how they carried on the project.

The visitors from Jamestown last evening included John Hart, President, Harley Bloomer, Charles Harrod, Jack Martin and Frank Taylor. Fred Abbott and Paul Johnson represented the Marine Corps League.

Duff Speaks At Crawford County Outing

Governor James M. Duff and Congressman L. H. Gavin headed the list of distinguished speakers at the annual picnic of the Crawford County Republican group held Wednesday at the Crawford county fair grounds in Meadville. It was Duff's first appearance in Crawford county since he took office two years ago.

In his address, the governor said that a western extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike to Youngstown, O., would probably be under construction "by this time next year."

Governor Duff said: "My present information is that the extension will be about 50 miles long and will connect the area with the greatest highway system in the world."

The governor added that the state was now engaged in making a survey of the proposed extension between Irwin and Youngstown.

Funds for the eastern extension of the highway to Philadelphia have been appropriated and work will begin within the near future, he added.

The governor also spoke of the mental institutions throughout the state and also the condition of the present highway system which is rated, he said, as one of the finest in the country.

He urged the members of the Crawford county committee to send a good representation of Republicans back to Harrisburg this fall in order that the proposed port may be given to his plans for the state.

Other speakers included State Senator M. Hartley Taylor, of Dauphin county, senate majority leader and state G.O.P. chairman; Congressman Carroll D. Kearns and State Rep. Robert F. Kent, both seeking re-election this fall.

J. Perry Eckels was the general chairman for the program. A reception was held in the Lafayette hotel in Meadville Wednesday morning for the G.O.P. dignitaries who attended the affair.

STORM AT TITUSVILLE

Titusville Herald: One of the heaviest showers of the summer passed over Titusville about 2 p. m. yesterday. During the downpour clouds were so heavy that daylight was virtually obliterated and the street lights were turned on. There were no electrical disturbances and in a short time the sun was shining again. There was an official rain measurement of six-tenths of an inch at the Stokes station just south of the city. The maximum temperature for the day was 70 degrees, with a low of 58. Local Republicans attending the picnic at Meadville County Fair Grounds near Meadville reported only a little rain there, but those going to the picnic between 12 and 1 report a terrific downpour.

Church Bells Toll Opening Of Assembly

The hourly peal of church bells on Sunday, August 22, will observe the opening of the first assembly of the World Council of Churches to be held at Amsterdam, Holland, August 22 to September 4.

The Warren County Ministerial Association reminds that church bells are to be rung on the hour from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and requests that all Christians stand for a moment in silent prayer that "the Amsterdam assembly will mark a rebirth of Christian faith."

The Protestant and orthodox churches participating in the assembly will be represented by delegates from 140 churches in 39 countries throughout the world. The 27 American churches are sending a total delegation of 225 church leaders.

The assembly has been convened by a provisional committee in existence for the past ten years. Its tasks will include ratification of the constitution of the World Council of Churches, and united study of problems confronting the Christian churches at the present time.

The general theme of the sessions will be "Man's Disorder and God's Design."

The anti-Communist city administration announced last night it is debating two plans as a solution to the currency mix-up, resulting from circulation here of rival eastern and western marks.

1. To issue an emergency currency for the city.

2. To make the western mark exclusive currency in western Berlin in order to overcome the difficulties caused by the Soviet blocking of eastern mark accounts in the city's western sectors.

In western Berlin both the eastern and western German currencies now are legal. In the Soviet sector only the eastern mark is valid.

Russia's blocking of these east mark accounts has made it virtually impossible for the city government and western sector firms to pay wages, because the west had directed that three-fourths of all salaries were to be paid in eastern marks.

Bid For Farm Vote To Be Made by Both Candidates

Dewey's strategists evidently are counting on heavy support for him in the rural areas to offset the bid President Truman has made for labor support with his call for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Dewey, still blocking out his campaign plans, talked again yesterday with House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts. At a news conference afterwards, Martin replied to a question as to whether he would defend the record of the 80th congress during the campaign: "The 80th congress doesn't need defending. We are going to brag about the 80th congress."

GAME COMMISSION PAYS $2,293 IN BOUNTIES

The Pennsylvania Game Commission paid a total of $2,293 in bounties for predatory animals killed in Warren county during the fiscal year from June 1, 1947 to May 31, 1948, the Pennsylvania Game News reports in its August issue.

Red foxes led the list with 324 being killed. Other predators on which bounties were paid included 229 weasels, 114 gray foxes, one goshawk and 26 great horned owls.

Silent Thousands Gather At Cathedral for Funeral Of "The King of Baseball"

The usually noisy canyons of midtown Manhattan were hushed as the Babe's body was born behind mounted police from the Lexington Avenue funeral home.

The tangle of traffic grew still, thousands looked silently down from skyscraper windows and rooftops as the measured clapping of the policemen's horses echoed in the streets.

Msgr. Flannery and his assistants went to the main entrance of the Cathedral to meet the casket as it was borne from the hearse.

Those who could not press into the Cathedral waited outside to see the Babe's funeral cortege move to Gate of Heaven cemetery in a receiving vault.

The thousands who jammed the streets marked the climax of three days of mourning and tributes to the Babe.

More than 100,000 persons filed past his body as it lay in state in the lobby of Yankee Stadium for two days. Mrs. Ruth had requested, in mindful of what the Babe meant to the public who never forgot him.

Young and old, rich and poor, they came from hundreds of miles to look on his face for the last time.

John Sylvester, 33, and Mrs. Sylvester of Garden City, N. Y., arrived after flying from California to attend the services.

Sylvester made headlines with the Babe when he was 11 years old and a resident of Essex Falls, N. J. Near death from an ear infection, Sylvester received a letter and an autographed baseball from the Babe.

Ruth told him he would hit a home run the next day in the World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals as a gift to Johnny Sylvester.

"He hit it, all right," Sylvester said. "He hit three of them."

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston came with his son, George.

At 9:45 a. m. the hearse bearing the Babe's body began moving slowly toward St. Patrick's from the University Funeral Home, 52nd Street and Lexington Ave. More than 1,000 persons stood solemnly outside the funeral home as the hearse moved away.

Along the route across midtown Manhattan to the Cathedral rooftops and office windows were crowded with silent throngs of watchers.

So hushed were the usually noisy canyons of Manhattan that the horses' hooves of the escorting mounted policemen echoed in the streets.

Ruling Given on Status of Red Teacher

Mrs. Kosenkine, 52, who suffered multiple fractures and other injuries in her leap a week ago today, has been given several blood transfusions. She was placed under the oxygen tent yesterday.

Her physician, Dr. Grant Pennoyer, telephoned to Soviet Consul General Yakov M. Lomakin last night and offered to have him name a surgeon for consultation with Pennoyer and other hospital doctors.

Note Rejecting Red Charges Almost Ready

The implications of Marshall's comment appeared to be that he considers the Soviets have made charges which in some respects at least they knew were not true.

There has been no indication that the Russians intend to modify their stand at any point, regardless of what facts the American government may be able to establish. Thus the ultimate result of the exchange of notes seems certain to be another diplomatic stalemate between Moscow and Washington.

Many Attend Store Opening At Youngsville

Youngsville, Aug. 19.—The grand opening of the Johnson Brothers' store takes place today, when the first 300 ladies calling at the store were presented with beautiful rosebud favors. Special awards have been planned for the oldest and youngest shoppers and there will be a number of other prizes given away.

The store has been so completely remodeled and made more attractive and convenient for the shopper that it is scarcely recognizable by those who have not viewed progress of the work.

Heavy rain Wednesday caused surface water to flood some of the local streets and sidewalks and also flooded a number of basements about town, including the Methodist church basement.

Mrs. George Peterson, of West Main street, will be hostess Friday at 2:30 p. m., to the local WCTU with Mrs. J. A. Sagerdahl listed as co-hostess. This will be an important meeting as election of officers will be held.

Truman Insists the Loyalty Review Program Success

Mr. Truman said there is a difference between the confidential files of federal employees and their employment records. He made clear once again that the confidential files will not be made available to congressional committees.

It was learned from another source that Whittaker Chambers has not been a witness before a federal grand jury in New York City investigating espionage. Chambers has acknowledged to the house committee that he was a Communist from 1924-1937 and worked with a Communist underground in Washington.

The Justice Department has declined to comment on this in any way, repeating that it will not discuss proceedings still in progress before a grand jury.

Mr. Truman said he could say categorically that the government's loyalty program has been a success.

He added that the justice department has been at work for some time on a proposed new loyalty statute.

He said sharply that he does not want any gag law that does infringe on the bill of rights.

"Do you consider that the house hearings have infringed on the bill of rights?" a reporter asked.

The president replied yes, that he does.

The congressional spy investigators are going ahead with their search for new evidence. They said they had lined up three new witnesses for secret testimony before the house committee.

What they are after primarily at this point is not direct testimony about the operations of a Communist underground in Washington before and during the war.

They are concentrating instead on what Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) calls "spadework" designed to help dig up "the truth or the falsity" of the controversy involving Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers.

This is a prelude to public hearings, set for next Wednesday, at which Hiss and Chambers will be heard.

Corry Ma Again Seized In Florida

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Aug. 19.—(P)—Jack Dietrich, 31, of Corry, Pa., was seized by police today and held for West Palm Beach authorities.

Chief Roland Kelly said Dietrich was en route from West Palm Beach to Miami to board an airplane. The Palm Beach sheriff's office asked that he be intercepted.

A squad car stopped the Pa. Beach taxicab in which the man was riding.

"He jumped out and ran, and our officers had to pin him down," said Chief Kelly.

The police official reported that taxicab driver told him Dietrich was to board an airplane Miami for the north.

At West Palm Beach, Sheriff Deputy C. B. Bowen reported received a telegram yesterday from Columbus, Ohio, authorities asking that Dietrich be held as parole violator. A warrant was in the mail, the message said.

Dietrich was tried in West Palm Beach on charges of breaking a parole and was acquitted by a Federal jury. Federal authorities charged him with transporting stolen goods to Chicago, but permitted the case to lapse when word that Dietrich was wanted in Ohio for parole violation.

Federal judge John W. Holla at Miami yesterday released Dietrich but ordered him to report to the Palm Beach county sheriff at 11 A. M. today for possible action on the parole violation charge.

Glendora-VFW Tangle Tonight In 2nd Round of Pennant Playoff

Glendora Coffee can clinch the championship of the Sunset League tonight, but it will have to convince the VFW, the hard way—on the field—to do it. And from the perspective of the Vets, arch rivals of the coffee makers, it's not going to be a tea party.

Glendora, winner of the second league race, topped the Vets 7 to 2 score in the opening game of a best-out-of-three series for the league pennant.

The teams will clash again tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the State Hospital diamond.

A win for Glendora will terminate the affair but a triumph for the Vets will extend the series the full route with the third tilt slated for Monday evening, also of the State Hospital field.

The large crowd of district baseball enthusiasts who have followed the close league campaign throughout the season is expected to jam the bleachers at the State Hospital field for tonight's game.

National Forge Baseballers Schedule Tilts With Strong Corry and Jamestown Nines

District baseball fans who had to see the classy Nashville in action against the National Forge last night were greatly disappointed when the weatherman stepped up the game with the 5 wash.

A contest was slated for Wilfield at Irvine. Overcast skies had prevailed all day yesterday, but club officials found the ground too soggy and reluctantly called the game.

The Forge nine now turns its attention to two other games scheduled for this week, one out-of-town tilt will be played Friday evening at 9:15 o'clock at Corry with the strong Corry

ALTHOUGH Babe Ruth became the greatest home run hitter of all time he hit only one homer in 1914 during his first season in organized ball. He was too busy pitching brilliant ball at the time to worry about hitting.

During his rookie season between Baltimore and Providence in the International League Ruth compiled 22 victories against nine defeats for a percentage of .709, also winning two games out of three for the Red Sox.

Ruth returned to the Red Sox for five more seasons during which time he won 87 games, lost 44 and belted 49 four baggers.

In 1915 Ruth helped the Sox win the American League pennant. He pitched 18 victories and hit four home runs. Although the Sox won the World Series from the Phillies that fall, Ruth's only time at bat in the classic resulted in an unsuccessful pinch hitting effort.

During the next two campaigns Ruth won 23 games each season on the mound and played several games in right field. In 1916 the Sox again won the American

Dusting Off the Wrong Guy

League pennant and World Series They repeated in 1918 and between these two years Ruth turned in remarkable pitching feats. His record for pitching 20 consecutive World Series innings without allowing a run (13 innings, 1916, and 16 innings, 1918) still stands.

It was while playing for the Red Sox in 1918 that Ed Barrow, manager of the team, realized the potentialities in Ruth's bat. The Babe hit 11 home runs that season and Barrow encouraged Ruth to learn all he could about playing right field.

Barrow is one man who knew Ruth better than anybody. He knows of countless Babe Ruth incidents. There was the time in the 1918 World Series against the Chicago Cubs when Ruth, who had a poor memory for names and faces, was warned about Leslie Mann, a good hitter.

Barrow advised Ruth to pitch close to Mann to back him away from the plate.

Ruth agreed with the strategy. In the first inning the

Pitching Feet For Excellence

Babe let fly at the batter's head.

Ruth came back to the bench all smiles, expecting to be congratulated for following carefully laid plans.

"Why you silly-so-and-so," shouted Barrow. "That wasn't Mann you dusted. That was Max Flack."

The following season Ruth saw action in 139 games, most of them in the outfield, and cracked 29 home runs for a new major league record.

Barrow refuses to accept the credit for Ruth's conversion from a star pitcher to an outfielder who made few mistakes.

"You didn't have to teach him anything," Barrow once said. "He could do everything by instinct on the ball field."

"I called him in one day in 1915 and asked him what he would rather do—pitch or play the outfield."

"Well, I guess I can't do both," replied Ruth. "Well, then, I'll play the outfield."

No Arms Prove No Handicap To This Ambitious Angler

AP Newsfeatures

New Smyrna Beach, Fla.—Handless since 1920, Joe Padderatz of New Smyrna Beach has a fishing record envied by many normal anglers.

Padderatz, who lost both hands in an accident at a plant where he was employed as an electrical engineer, can cast a plug 75 to 85 yards.

He baits his own hooks—an accomplishment which took him two years to master—and even wraps his own casting rods. More than that, he's built himself a 12-foot rowboat and a 32-foot cruiser.

He hung up his best fishing record to date the afternoon he hooked 37 sea bass which weighed a total of 370 pounds.

What can Padderatz do besides fish? He saved all the lumber used in building his five-room cottage here. He's a good marksman with a .38 revolver. And he can write his name and light his own cigarettes.

New Found Strength Makes Dodgers Pennant Contender

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A new found strength on the mound is making the Brooklyn Dodgers the team to beat in the National League.

Burt Shotton's Brooks shut out the Philadelphia Phillies last night 1-0, to climb within one game of the slipping Boston Braves. The Braves were beaten by the Giants in New York 8-2.

Rex Barney for the Brooks gave the best performance of his major league career. He permitted only one hit, a fifth inning single by Third Baseman Ralph Caballero.

Rookie Robin Roberts, the Phillies' bonus right-hander, made an error and had a wild pitch to allow Brooklyn's lone run in the first.

The third place St. Louis Cardinals also took advantage of Boston's defeat, coming from behind to edge the Cincinnati Reds in St. Louis 4-3.

The Cards now are only two and a half games off the pace.

Trailing 3-2 in the last of the ninth, the Cards quickly tied the score when Nippy Jones tripped Ralph LaPointe ran for Jones and scored on Del Rice's single.

Rod Schoendienst ran for Rice and was sacrificed.

Northern walked Marty Marion hit what appeared to be a double play ball, but Red Stalcup threw wild past first trying to get the last out, and Schoendienst scored the winning run.

No Arms Prove No Handicap To This Ambitious Angler

AP Newsfeatures

New Smyrna Beach, Fla.—Handless since 1929, Joe Paderatz of New Smyrna Beach has a fishing record envied by many normal anglers.

Paderatz, who lost both hands in an accident at a plant where he was employed as an electrical engineer, can cast a plug 75 to 85 yards.

He baits his own hooks—an accomplishment which took him two years to master—and even wraps his own casting rods. More than that, he's built himself a 12-foot rowboat and a 32-foot cruiser.

He hung up his best fishing record to date the afternoon he hooked 37 sea bass which weighed a total of 370 pounds.

What can Paderatz do besides fish? He saved all the lumber used in building his five-room cottage here. He's a good marksman with a .38 revolver. And he can write his name and light his own cigarettes.

New Found Strength Makes Dodgers Pennant Contender

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

A new found strength on the mound is making the Brooklyn Dodgers the team to beat in the National League.

Burt Shotton's Brooks shut out the Philadelphia Phillies last night 1-0, to climb within one game of the slipping Boston Braves. The Braves were beaten by the Giants in New York 8-2.

Rex Barney for the Brooks gave the best performance of his major league career. He permitted only one hit, a fifth inning single by Third Baseman Ralph Caballero.

Rookie Robin Roberts, the Phillies' bonus rightlander, made an error and had a wild pitch to allow Brooklyn's lone run in the first.

The third place St. Louis Cardinals also took advantage of Boston's defeat, coming from behind to edge the Cincinnati Reds in St. Louis, 4-3. The Cards now are only two and a half games off the pace.

Trailing 3-2 in the last of the ninth, the Cards quickly tied the score when Nippy Jones tripled. Ralph LaPointe ran for Jones and scored on Del Rice's single. Red Schoendienst ran for Rice and was sacrificed to second. After Ron Northey walked Marty Marion hit what appeared to be a double play ball, but Red Stallcup threw wild past first trying to get the last out, and Schoendienst scored the winning run.

The talk of the Galleries on this first day of the 72-hole grind at Wellshire Municipal Course was Otto Greiner of Baltimore, Md.

He toured the 6,768-yard Wellshire layout yesterday in 68 strokes, six under par. It was the best performance of any player and the big name golfers were impressed.

P. I. A. A. Has Eleven Teams In Record Test

Harrisburg, Aug. 19—(P)—Eleven schoolboy teams place long winning streaks on the block in Pennsylvania's 1948 grid campaign.

The first tests for continuation of 1947 unbeaten records are listed for Sept. 10, the date fixed by the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association for the official opening of the season.

This gave the PIAA's 800 member high schools with grid squads the opportunity to start drills yesterday under the "three full weeks" pre-season practice rule.

New Kensington, western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League 1947 titlist, goes into the fall skirmishes with an imposing skinn of 18 consecutive victories.

Ten of them came last year.

The South Penn Conference champion, Hanover High, has a two-year winning streak of 11 games. One of the triumphs is a holdover from the 1946 campaign.

Two other 11-game winning streak holders are Clark Summit of northeastern Pennsylvania and Clarion of northwestern Pennsylvania.

Blakely enters the 1948 campaign boasting a 13-game victory skinn. It won 10 last year to gain the eastern conference championship. Another 10-game winner is Lower Merion of the suburban (Turn to Page Seventeen)

Some of the victims lie sprawled on the sidewalk as others stagger away after an explosion in a building in downtown Reno, Nev., which killed at least five persons and injured 180 others, 32 of them seriously. Nearly half a block of buildings were destroyed by fire and the explosion, which grew out of a minor blaze in an empty restaurant.

Eight-hit pitching by Sheldon Jones and home runs by Johnny Mize (No. 29) and Sid Gordon (No. 24) were the highlights of the Giants' victory over the Braves. It was Jones' 12th triumph. Vern Bickford, first of four Boston pitchers, was the loser.

The Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for six runs in the top of the eighth to come from behind and defeat the Cubs in Chicago 7-4. Bob Chesnes, the winning pitcher, contributed to the victory with a pair of singles. The victory moved the fourth place Bucs to within five games of the Braves.

The Cleveland Indians extended their first place margin in the American League to three full games over the Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 3-0. Sammy Zolack, former Brownie, was found for nine hits by his ex-teammates, but was tough in the clutch.

The Red Sox climbed over the Athletics into second place by two percentage points when they unleashed a 17-hit attack against three Philadelphia pitchers to whip the A's, 10-2. Ted Williams and Birdie Tebbetts paced the Red Sox attack with three hits apiece.

Vic Raschi earned his easiest victory of the season when the New York Yankees defeated the Washington Senators, 4-1, in a game called at the end of the fifth because of rain. It was Raschi's 16th triumph.

The Chicago White Sox-Detroit Tigers game was postponed because of rain.

Spotlight Turned On This Area By Speaker At Rotary

J. Kennedy Spafford, of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce delivered the following interesting and timely talk at the luncheon-meeting of the Warren Rotary Club at the YWCA activities building Monday noon.

It would please me very much if you would regard this as a conversation, or discussion with you, rather than to consider it a speech or talk. I do have something to discuss with you. My subject is: "Turn the spotlight on northwestern Pennsylvania—You will be amazed at what you find."

Please let me reassure you at once that I'll not dose you with statistics or resort to academic economics other than to cover an occasional point.

The best way to define northwestern Pennsylvania is to take this map, fold it in four and you have, roughly, the area I refer to. I have, in my work, crossed and criss-crossed this area many times and always am amazed at the simple beauty of it. Driving over the rolling roads past the pleasant farms, crossing the streams, through the forests, in and out of the many villages, towns and cities where manufacturing hums and huses, I am struck by one particular thing—

"Here things are normal or as nearly normal as can be found anywhere on earth."

There are no feudal estates or colossal industrial empires. Independence is unrestrained. The ever present churches, the many, many churches testify, if nothing else, that here any man finds a place to worship as he sees fit.

But there are other evidences of this thing which I call "normal". There are no huge, badly overcrowded cities, jam packed with traffic snarls, poor housing and the deficiencies which plague practically every large city today. No indeed for mostly we are an area of towns, old towns to be sure but dignified and pleasant to live in withal.

I tell you, this thought, that this is a land where things are normal has grown upon me and so I took the trouble to dig deeper and here is what I found.

Other than the General Electric Company in Erie, I know of no other so called "industrial giant" in the area. But what I did find and what is most amazing is that industry (and by industry I mean the component parts, agriculture and manufacturing) is still made up of concerns which were started in the traditional America way, of—somebody with an idea and a good reputation borrowing some money from friends or whomever would lend it—starting from scratch—working hard and making a "go" of it.

The area is literally alive with these rugged, successful industries, independently owned and operated. You know what there is right here in Warren.

In Erie, the Behrend Brothers established the Hammermill Paper Company in such fashion—Joy in Venango county—the Carbon companies in Elk after the coal and lumber was played out—Zippo in McKean county—Sylvania in Cameron—Reznor in Mercer—Talon, Crawford—the little concern in your own county making hotel china—yes, and look at the oil independents, the wood working plants and the metals and the mines and the quarries, and hosts of other industries, independently owned and operated. It is a healthy area too with grand opportunities for recreation.

Gentlemen, with poor artistry, I've sketched the picture as it is at the moment but—nothing is static and in the very midst of our present prosperity I see little indications of trouble ahead.

I'll try to illustrate what I mean. One day recently I visited Sheffield where we met the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Father Bonetzky.

While a man of God, he is also an extremely practical man who was brought up, or lived in the hard boiled anthracite coal regions. He knows and has seen conditions of life which, mercifully, we in this area have been largely spared.

He is concerned about Sheffield. He sees young men, middle aged men and even some of the women of the town, moving off to work in the larger cities of the area. If young, he sees them rooming anywhere then can find a bed. He sees them free of all the natural, normal home life restraints. He sees them earning better wages than would be possible to get at home but also he sees them grow sick and tired of the cramped life and pressure of an unaccustomed situation. He sees them want to come back home.

Composes Symphony in Institution

During a successful year-long fight against alcoholic madness, Ernest Salisbury, center, 26, wrote a symphony which the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, under Dr. Walter Foote, left, will play. Salisbury was confined in the Wayne County General Hospital, Elioise, Mich., and wrote his music with the help of Dr. Ira M. Altschuler, right, chief psychiatrist.

Father Bonetzky is doing something about it. He knows that jobs must be made for these folk—that they don't really want to drive miles and miles away to work and so many do and arriving there be already tired from the drive.

Quietly he picked up news of 2 men who, with savings of their own and with the money which they can borrow, want to start a business of their own in Sheffield. They are experienced in that business. They need a little help however but they do not want anything for nothing. So the little priest is going from door to door, talking it over with the business men of the town and it looks very much as though there will be more steady jobs in Sheffield in an industry that is stable indeed.

It isn't necessary to go into the details of this particular situation. It is important however that you appreciate that it is an illustration of what I believe to be something which should concern all of us.

I can name you town after town, village after village from which workers are driving 25 miles, 50 miles and over to their jobs and the reason is there isn't sufficient employment for them near home.

At least 100 women travel daily from Punksutawney to Brookville to work I'll leave it to you whether this is as it should be, whether the seeds of discontent may not be sowing; you all know very well that at this very moment how a truculent, native American's third party has been allegedly taken over by the followers of the Kremlin. If the munes play out, if the trees are all felled, if there are no jobs can the cities keep on living and luring? I think not and when I tell you that 5% of the population of a neighboring county received governmental assistance in the thirties, in the depression, you will immediately recognize the fact that you, here, helped pay the cost.

So what is my answer? I believe that we should begin to think in area terms. The smaller towns and localities simply cannot afford an efficient chamber of commerce such as you have here in Warren and likewise there may not be as many men with the same civic pride as there are here in this really wonderful community.

This idea, not entirely my own, but one that is spreading over the whole United States, may set off a chain of reactions which will startle me but I do firmly believe that in order to keep that rugged independence I spoke of earlier that we must band together in some sort of council for the industrial and area development of northwestern Pennsylvania. I for one would rather see many, many thriving small communities where people can live and breathe and work than to see a single large metropolis in the area.

Also, I sincerely believe that there are enough of you in this great northwest who will be able to reconcile self interest with the larger purpose of area welfare. The truth of the matter is that in doing this you can't possibly escape sharing in the greater prosperity.

Now gentlemen, who wants to throw the first brick?

SUNSHINE OR Rain? Want Ads repeat again and again!

Peach Crop Good; Apples Discouraging

Harrisburg—While Pennsylvania's peach crop this year is above average, the apple harvest will be the smallest since 1945, according to Federal-State surveys announced by the State Department of Agriculture.

Latest estimates on peaches, made as of August 1, indicate a crop of 2,123,000 bushels which is 204,000 above last year and 164,000 bushels better than the 10-year average, 1937 to 1946, the Department reported. The crop is said to be relatively free of damage by insects and disease.

Apple growers are faced with an entirely different condition, the State survey disclosed. The 1948 crop is estimated at 5,198,000 bushels compared with 6,612,000 last year and the 10-year average of 5,031,000 bushels. The smallest apple crop in 27 years was 2,470,000 bushels in 1915.

The decline in apples this year is attributed to the late, wet and cold spring season and frosts at blossom time. On top of this, weather conditions during the growing season have been such that scab infection of the main crop is said to be "the worst in years".

Sour cherry harvest in Pennsylvania exceeded expectations. The crop is now estimated at 7,404 tons, about equal to the 10-year average. The total is nearly 2,000 tons greater than last year.

The State's grape crop is indicated at 16,600 tons, slightly better than average, but under the 18,100 tons harvested last year.

STEEL HOUSES

A major step forward in the building of factory-made houses awaits only approval by the attorney general, according to James Marlow, Associated Press feature writer in Washington.

It involves setting aside 59,000 tons of steel for six months under a voluntary allocation plan already approved by the steel industry and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.

This wouldn't build many houses, viewed in the light of tremendous overall needs. Estimates are it would provide materials for only 8,000 or so dwellings.

But those backing the infant industry, blocked up to now by inability to get steel supplies, say the plan would let it show how it can make "better houses at lower prices."

Tighe E. Woods, housing expediter, says the all-steel factory-made house is "the first real attempt" at cracking the housing shortage.

A few have been turned out and put in use, but not enough to make any dent in the demand for homes.

Lustron Corp. of Columbus, Ohio, has the biggest plant, with a capacity of more than 150 assembly-line homes a day.

Once the attorney general's office says the agreement doesn't violate any anti-trust laws, the 59,000 tons may be made available to Lustron and the others. Lustron is expected to get the biggest slice, although definite allocations have not been made. Five other concerns will share.

The cost to the man who wants to live in one of these factory-made houses is estimated at about $8,000 without the lot. Reliance Homes, Inc., of Lester, Pa., says its homes, with three bedrooms, living room, dinette and kitchen, fully equipped with everything but a refrigerator, sell to the builder for $8,000. This includes the cost of delivery to the site and putting it up.

The Reliance Home comes in seven completely shop-assembled sections, with plumbing, heating and electrical systems installed. The firm says six men can put it together in four hours.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) and Rep. Sundstrom (R-N.J.), members of a joint congressional committee on housing, say their committee has concluded that mass production of houses is one of the basic solutions to the shortage.

Sundstrom says it takes only 500 man-hours to manufacture and put up a factory-made steel house against 1,500 to 2,000 for work at the site alone on a conventional dwelling.

WATCH OUT FOR BARGITIS

Bargitis is one of the world's worst nervous diseases, warns Strickland Gillilan in Your Life. Its symptoms are readily identified—they include an intense urge to hurry and an equally strong desire to be first. You see bargitis victims attempting to beat the trainman down the steps of the train, elbowing their way down the aisles of busses or trolleys, charging to the front at all sorts of public gatherings. What does being first get them? A temporary feeling of triumph is their sole and meaningless reward—won at the cost of bruised ribs and trampled feet for all who dare cross their path.

How can bargitis be cured? There's only one way. Start today to make sure you are not the first. Say to yourself, "I'm going to let somebody get ahead of me—even if I get to the dime store or the office a minute late!" Imagine yourself at least second in line. It won't hurt you. Make it a habit to be as far back as third or fourth in the procession, and in time you may learn to endure the degradation of losing the race into a bus or trolley.

Cure yourself of bargitis at any cost! You owe it to your fellow humans and yourself!

Friday and Saturday have been designated as Old Fashioned Dollar Days in Warren, with over forty merchants participating to make them the greatest money-saving days local shoppers have ever experienced. Public schools will be asked to take over the task of registering all youths in the 18 to 25-year bracket when the nation's peace-time draft opens August 30. This fact is revealed in a suggestion from Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of public instruction, that local school boards declare special holidays with special exercises on days proclaimed for the registration so that school facilities and teachers can be used. Dr. Haas announces that arrangements for use of school buildings and the participation of teachers in the draft registration will be made locally. He says the question has been discussed with Col. Henry M. Gross, state selective service director, and "it is our judgment that the situation will be met best and most promptly by direction conferences," between local draft boards and school officials. Colonel Gross adds that arrangements will be made with chairmen of selective service local boards to discuss such conferences. The registration of the 18-through-25 age group will start August 30 for persons born in 1922 before that date will end September 18, the last date for those born in 1930 before September 19, to enroll.

Algot Swanson, who was here from Springfield, Mass., over the past weekend to attend the Swanson family reunion, is remembered by many in town and it is interesting to learn that he is one of the founders of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Algot was a charter member of the Springfield Chapter, which was instrumental in forming the society that has now stretched to nearly every hamlet in the country.

A beautiful midsummer day, along with the fact that the tour was personally conducted by the local supervisor combined to make the trip an eventful one for the Erie visitors.

The baseball school at the State Hospital diamond furnished a lot of entertainment for attendees, staff members and not a few patients, all of whom were impressed by the possibilities of some of the talent that turned out for the sessions. Congressman Leon H. Gavin was a caller at the office Tuesday on a busy round of handshakes and brief visits with local constituents. Quarter Million Boys and Girls Given Driver Training

Nearly a quarter of a million boys and girls emerged from the high schools of the nation this year as trained automobile drivers, the American Automobile Association reports.

According to the A.A.A.'s report on behind-the-wheel training in the high schools of this country, the program which is making such spectacular advances resulted in 238,000 trained students in 1948 as compared with 70,000 in 1947, an increase of 200 per cent in one year.

Lou E. Holland, of Kansas City, Mo., Chairman of the A.A.A.'s Traffic Safety Committee, pointed out that the great gains achieved this year are due to a variety of causes, including the strong support of public opinion for safety education and behind-the-wheel training in the schools; the sympathetic attitude of school officials for the program; and the fine cooperation of automobile manufacturers and dealers in supplying dual control cars for training purposes.

In commenting on the A.A.A. findings, Mr. Holland cited the fact that President Harry S. Truman, in opening the President's Highway Safety Conference last year, referred to driver training as one of the most promising approaches to a solution of the critical traffic accident problem. Because of this interest on the part of the Chief Executive, the A.A.A. progress report was embodied in a letter to the White House.

The letter told the President that cooperation by educational authorities has resulted in much greater emphasis during the past year on behind-the-wheel training in dual control cars. However, it was pointed out that even though there has been greater acceptance of this essential follow-up of basic classroom study, much remains to be done in order to achieve still wider acceptance and thus, greater effectiveness for the program. "This is highlighted by the fact," Mr. Holland said, "that less than 1 per cent of the 26,000 high schools in the United States provide complete courses that include actual operation of the car. Statistics show, too, that less than one-sixth of the 1,500,000 high school graduates last year received both classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction."

Mr. Holland's letter to the President disclosed that 1,500 dual control cars were made available to schools during the year through efforts of the A.A.A. and its affiliated clubs, with the splendid cooperation of car manufacturers and dealers. The number of cars made available in 1947 was less than 200.

Rural Church Schools Have Duhring Camp

A very successful camp was held recently by the American Sunday School Union at Camp Duhring near Marienville, in Forest county. Campers were there from Warren, Erie, Crawford, Venango, Elk, Jefferson and Chautauque (N. Y.) counties. Of 77 campers, 36 were from Warren county rural Sunday schools.

Classes were held in study of the Epistle to the Philippians and related Bible subjects. Teachers were Rev. and Mrs. Dean E. Coates of Townville, Rev. and Mrs. Fred S. Bowes, Watburg; Rev. Ernest Kaebnick, Warren; and Rev. and Mrs. Roy Wolfe, of Washington, Pa. Camp administrator was Rev. John Blakely of Ridgway, and the dining room was directed by Mrs. L. W. Frank, Torpedo.

In addition to the classes there were evening evangelistic services, conducted by Rev. N. C. Mowens, of Ridgway. The afternoon swimming time was enjoyed by many in the deep pool nearby. There were other sports, also, including mushball, quilts and juking.

Starbuck Union Sunday School led with seven campers; Cherry Grove had 6, Cobbs Corners 6, West Spring Creek 2, Pleasant Miller Hill 4, Thompson Hill 2, Township 2, Plank Road (Watson Township) 2, Excelsior 2, and Torpedo 1.

The Forest County Camp Association, owners of Camp Duhring, are to be complimented upon their work in getting the grounds in condition for the camps this year, and with the improvements planned, it should prove a very attractive place for future years. It was enjoyable to be without the usually-expected mosquitoes, which should recommend this site to many groups.

Corydon Fire Department Holds Meeting

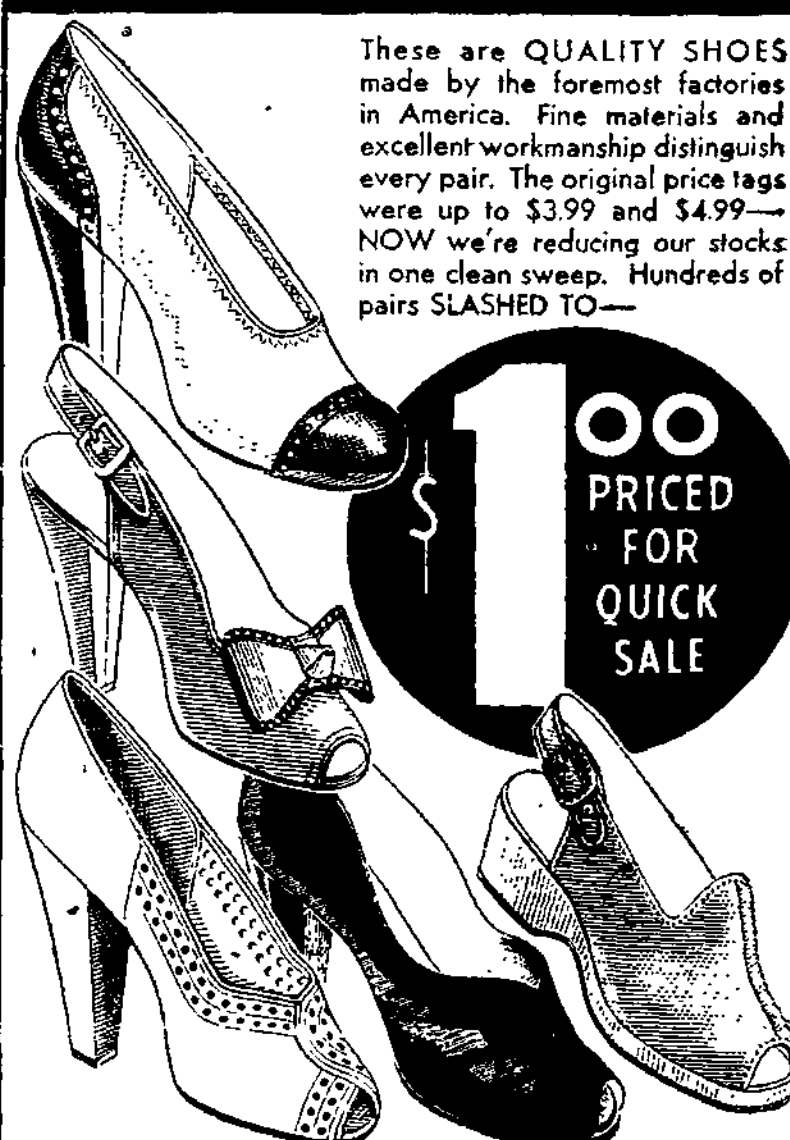

Corydon, Aug. 19—L. J. Learn, newly elected president, conducted the regular meeting of the Corydon Volunteer Fire Department, when minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Anne Van Sickle.

Under the heading of unfinished business, discussed were several items pertaining to the recent sale of fire extinguishers, amount of stock on hand and so forth. Offered were numerous timely suggestions by Mr. Corey, of Jamestown, N. Y. Following several motions that were made and carried, George Black reported plans were completed for the benefit dance to be held in LOOF hall on Thursday evening, August 26.

Elaborate plans for the clam bake, sponsored by the local fire department and to be held on Sunday, September 5, were painstakingly mapped by E. L. VanSickle, chairman of the arrangements, after which a number were named to head the various committees in charge.

The meeting was brought to a sudden and somewhat dramatic conclusion with the announcement of a fire that attracted attention and was located at the Nelson Crooks property. According to report, it resulted in the loss of a great amount of stacked straw.

be done in order to achieve still wider acceptance and thus, greater effectiveness for the program.

"This is highlighted by the fact," Mr. Holland said, "that less than 11 per cent of the 26,000 high schools in the United States provide complete courses that include actual operation of the car. Statistics show, too, that less than one-sixth of the 1,500,000 high school graduates last year received both classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction."

Mr. Holland's letter to the President disclosed that 1,500 dual control cars were made available to schools during the year through efforts of the A.A.A. and its affiliated clubs, with the splendid cooperation of car manufacturers and dealers. The number of cars made available in 1947 was less than 200.

Rural Church Schools Have Duhring Camp

A very successful camp was held recently by the American Sunday School Union at Camp Duhring near Marienville, in Forest county. Campers were there from Warren, Erie, Crawford, Venango, Elk, Jefferson and Chautauque, (N. Y.) counties. Of 77 campers, 36 were from Warren county rural Sunday schools.

Classes were held in study of the Epistle to the Philippians and related Bible subjects. Teachers were Rev. and Mrs. Dean E. Coates of Townville; Rev. and Mrs. Fred S. Bowes, Wattsburg; Rev. Ernest Kaebnick, Warren; and Rev. and Mrs. Roy Wolfe, of Washington, Pa. Camp administrator was Rev. John Blakely of Ridgway, and the dining room was directed by Mrs. L. W. Frank, Torpedo.

In addition to the classes there were evening evangelistic services, conducted by Rev. N. G. Mowens, of Ridgway. The afternoon swimming time was enjoyed by many in the deep pool nearby. There were other sports, also, including mushball, quoits and hiking.

Starbuck Union Sunday School led with seven campers; Cherry Grove had 6, Cobbs Corners 6, West Spring Creek 2, Pleasant Miller Hill 4, Thompson Hill 2, Township 2, Plank Road (Watson Township) 2, Excelsior 2, and Torpedo 1.

The Forest County Camp Association, owners of Camp Duhring, are to be complimented upon their work in getting the grounds in condition for the camps this year, and with the improvements planned, it should prove a very attractive place for future years. It was enjoyable to be without the usually-expected mosquitoes, which should recommend this site to many groups.

Corydon Fire Department Holds Meeting

Corydon, Aug. 19—L. J. Learn, newly elected president, conducted the regular meeting of the Corydon Volunteer Fire Department, when minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Anne Van Sickle.

Under the heading of unfinished business, discussed were several items pertaining to the recent sale of fire extinguishers, amount of stock on hand and so forth. Offered were numerous timely suggestions by Mr. Corey, of Jamestown, N. Y. Following several motions that were made and carried, George Black reported plans were completed for the benefit dance to be held in IOOF hall on Thursday evening, August 26.

Elaborate plans for the clam bake, sponsored by the local fire department and to be held on Sunday, September 5, were painstakingly mapped by E. L. VanSickle, chairman of the arrangements, after which a number were named to head the various committees in charge.

The meeting was brought to a sudden and somewhat dramatic conclusion with the announcement of a fire that attracted attention and was located at the Nelson Crooks property. According to report, it resulted in the loss of a great amount of stacked straw.

She's Pretty Now, But How Will She Look In 25 Years?

By ARTHUR EDSON
Washington—(AP)—What this country needs is an automobile that will grow old usefully.
Look at these sleek, fat bodied cars coming out now and you'll see what I mean.
The cars of tomorrow, eh? Well, how will they look the day after tomorrow? How will they look—and act—15, 20 or 25 years from today?
I think I know the answers to these questions, for I have just completed a three-week vacation in my native Ozarks. Now that I have my shoes back on, I can carry this message to the carmakers of America:

Gentlemen, the Ozarks are not pleased.
My authority for this statement is Bert Rush of Cherryvale, Kan. You will understand why he is an authority when I tell you what he did for a living.
He sold hand washing machines. Hand washing machines?
"Sure," said Rush. "You know, the kind you swish back and forth by hand. The wringer is worked by hand, too. I had the whole state of Arkansas for my territory. At one time I had 50 salesmen working for me. A mighty fine business, too."
Rush sold out when he saw the handwriting on the wall. He couldn't help but see it. It was in electric lights.
"The rural electrification administration moved in on me," Bert said. "Soon as a farmer gets electricity he begins to wonder about an electric washing machine. It ruined some of my best areas."
Obviously anyone who sells hand washing machines knows a thing or two about what happens to old cars. He hits places where anything more recent than 1934 is considered putting on airs.

"These new cars," scoffed Rush, "are strictly highway jobs."
"What can they do on an Ozark road?"
That's a good question, but a hard one to answer. A lot of other sections of the country that are off the beaten paths must be asking the same question, too.
For the old-fashioned car was a girl who didn't mind showing her knees, or more so. She could wade water almost up to her middle, and she thought nothing of straddling stumps and rocks.
But these cars of today with their highfallutin' airs! They're so wide they'd hang up on the sides of many a country road. They're so low they'd scrape bottom on a rock no bigger than a milk crock. Okay. Their speedometers hint they can do 100 or better.
But how will they do in gumbo mud?
Can you jack up the back, slip on a fly wheel, and saw wood?
How are they at running down heifers over plowed ground?
Can you carry a sack of chicken feed on each of the front fenders? Frankly, carmakers of America, the folks down in the Ozarks think the answer to these questions is no.
And that's why they're worried. Mighty, mighty worried.

Maharajah's Spending Spree as Boyle a Little Puzzled

New York—(AP)—The ideal gift on a radio give-away program today is the Maharajah of India. What lady wouldn't rather win a Maharajah than a new refrigerator? This lovely Indian ruler is stocked with diamonds; a refrigerator only yields ice cubes. And as for lettuce! No kitchen cooler ever built holds as much "lettuce" as the Maharajah—the kind that grows in the mint in big crinkly stacks.

But sad to relate, the Maharajah is accused of being a self-filling lettuce container. His legislature says he spent $10,000,000 in six weeks from the state treasury.

So, even if he were agreeable to the idea, no enterprising American sponsor can offer him up as radio's finest give-away prize.

No, the Maharajah has gone home to answer the $64 dollar question—or rather the $10,000,000 question—himself.

The Maharajah has scoffed at the charge he raided the Baroda treasury for such paltry pocket money. He's one of the world's richest men.

But what puzzles the average American husband, who has trouble explaining to his wife the $5 he lost on a horse race, is the "Could this maharajah spend $10,000,000 in six weeks?"

And the answer to that—with no implication of guilt on the part of Baroda's fun-loving prince—is a loud yes. Some Indian Maharajas can and probably have.

In the good old days there were no legislators around to harry this privileged class. Anybody who dared to question what one of these absolute monarchs did with the people's money would be staked down alive as bait for the annual spring tiger hunt.

The spending sprees they went on would make the late Diamond Jim Brady look like a kid buying a penny stick of licorice.

Take, for example, the Nizams of Hyderabad, beside whom even the rich Maharajahs of Baroda rates as a poor country cousin.

The Nizam's daddy, a free man with a rupee if ever one lived, kept 800 concubines and thought nothing of handing a dancing girl $5,000. He used to toss $30,000 trinkets to a favorite servant.

Abid, who put him to bed after his benders, Abid got only $2 a month salary, but is reported to have died worth $8,000,000. This, of course, is only one man's way of ending the servant problem.

The present Nizam, known in India as "the miser Mahajara," shows no such signs of spoiling the hired hands. He is undoubtedly the richest man on earth, but at 62 he lives simply, wears threadbare old clothes and watches his pennies closely. This may be because he writes poetry. Most poets live that way, but rarely by choice.

The Nizam, perhaps as a gesture to the memory of his robust father, does keep 50 automobiles and 50 to 100 concubines. And gesture or no gesture, he also is reported to have more than 100 children.

Conservative estimates of his wealth start at $2,000,000,000 and go as high as the fantastic figure of $250,000,000,000.

It is impossible to estimate because experts say if he tried to dump at once all the chests of diamonds, rubies and emeralds stored in his vaults, the world market in precious stones would fall to nothing. He has his own diamond mines.

Once he called in some European connoisseurs to appraise his jewels. He began by showing them a small table loaded with fabulous pearls. The amazed experts' estimate: $383,000,000.

Yet the story is told that one day, strolling on a sidewalk by his palace, the Nizam saw a small silver coin. He halted, put his foot on it, looked both ways and quickly picked up the coin.

It was worth about 8 cents. But the Nizam put it in his pocket—for good luck.

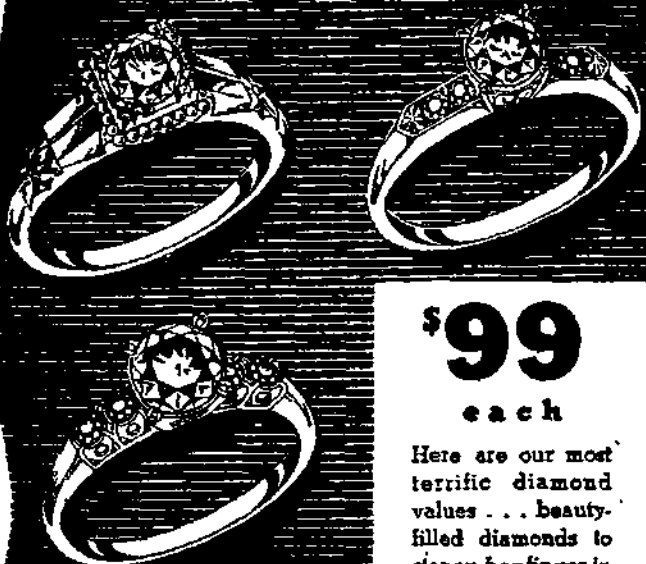

Funders keepers, losers weepers. He probably still has it. Still his diamonds, too.

Maharajah's Spending Spree Las Boyle a Little Puzzled

New York—(AP)—The ideal of a radio give-away program today is the Maharajah of India. What lady wouldn't rather win a new refrigerator than a new refrigerator? This lovely Indian ruler is stocked with diamonds; a refrigerator only yields ice cubes. And as for lettuce! No kitchen cooler ever built holds as much "lettuce" as the Maharajah—the kind that grows in the mint in big crinkly stacks.

But sad to relate, the Maharajah is accused of being a self-filling lettuce container. His legislature says he spent $10,000,000 in six weeks from the state treasury.

So, even if he were agreeable to the idea, no enterprising American sponsor can offer him up as radio's finest give-away prize. No, the Maharajah has gone home to answer the $64 dollar question—or rather the $10,000,000 question—himself.

The Maharajah has scoffed at the charge he raided the Baroda treasury for such paltry pocket money. He's one of the world's richest men.

But what puzzles the average American husband, who has trouble explaining to his wife the $5 he lost on a horse race, is: "Could a man really spend $10,000,000 in six weeks?"

And the answer to that—with no implication of guilt on the part of Baroda's fun-loving prince—is a loud yes. Some Indian Maharajas can and probably have.

Forest County To Have Wild Flower Club

Forest Republican: The people of Forest county, always aware of the natural beauty of their county, and alert to the conservation of such beauty, are invited to join a new Society whose objects are to conserve, cultivate and develop an appreciation for wild flowers.

A group of women from Forest county met and organized a new society, the name selected for it is "The Forest County Wild Flower Preservation Society." The objects of the society is the same as the National Wild Flower Preservation Society re:

1. Establish wild flower, or general wild life preserves, and nature trails.
2. Cultivate attractive and rare native plants, from seeds, cuttings and root divisions, transplant from land to be cleared.
3. Develop appreciation of nature and conservation, in children and the general public by lectures, posters, exhibits, nature walks and inexpensive leaflets giving information not readily available elsewhere.
4. Aid those wishing to know and grow wild flowers.

It is the dream of the Society that many persons in Forest county will be interested, and join with them in this work.

In the State of Pennsylvania, there are 2500 species of wild flowers, and it will be interesting to see how many can be found in our own county. The more wild flower lovers we have in the society, from all parts of the county, the more apt we will be to find all species. What may grow in abundance in one part of the county, perhaps will not grow at all in another.

We all enjoy our rides over country roads. Dirt roads are the most interesting, for then we find all kinds of surprises from early spring until late fall. We marvel at the color and beauty of the flowers, but how much more enjoyment we will have if as we see the colors we can identify the flowers, shrubs or trees. Since it was first talked of forming a society, all of the members have been alert to new flowers, and also to learning the names of the flowers that they see so often. So far many of the members have already learned the names of many new flowers.

The next meeting of the Society is being held at the home of Mrs. John Handy, Stewart Run, on August 17, at 7:30 p. m. Every one interested in joining is invited to come.

Penn'a Envoys Being Chosen At Harrisburg

Harrisburg—The special committee named by the State Chamber of Commerce to select the "Pennsylvania Ambassadors" who will be honored by various communities of the State during Pennsylvania Week, Sept. 26 through Oct. 2, is meeting in Harrisburg this week to make its selection. State Secretary of Commerce Orus J. Matthews disclosed today.

The selection committee, headed by Franklin Moore, president and managing director of the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, will choose the "Ambassadors" from a list of approximately 40 distinguished native sons and daughters whose names were recommended to the State Chamber by communities throughout the State before the deadline which was August 5.

"Ambassadors" selected finally will be invited by the local communities to return to their former home communities during Pennsylvania Week for presentation of an inscribed "Pennsylvania Ambassador" certificate bearing the signature of Governor James H. Duff, State Secretary of Commerce Orus J. Matthews, the president of the State Chamber of Commerce Roy C. McKenna, and the president of the local sponsoring organization.

The committee is limiting its selections to former Pennsylvanians now residing outside the State who have reflected great credit on Pennsylvania by reason of outstanding achievements in "some worthy field of endeavor." Only the persons actually nominated by the former home community in Pennsylvania will be considered.

Harrisburg—The special committee named by the State Chamber of Commerce to select the "Pennsylvania Ambassadors" who will be honored by various communities of the State during Pennsylvania Week, Sept. 26 through Oct. 2, is meeting in Harrisburg this week to make its selection, State Secretary of Commerce Orus J. Matthews disclosed today.

The selection committee, headed by Franklin Moore, president and managing director of the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, will choose the "Ambassadors" from a list of approximately 40 distinguished native sons and daughters whose names were recommended to the State Chamber by communities throughout the State before the deadline which was August 5.

"Ambassadors" selected finally will be invited by the local communities to return to their former home communities during Pennsylvania Week for presentation of an inscribed "Pennsylvania Ambassador" certificate bearing the signature of Governor James H. Duff, State Secretary of Commerce Orus J. Matthews, the president of the State Chamber of Commerce Roy C. McKenna, and the president of the local sponsoring organization.

The committee is limiting its selections to former Pennsylvanians now residing outside the State who have reflected great credit on Pennsylvania by reason of outstanding achievements in "some worthy field of endeavor." Only the persons actually nominated by the former home community in Pennsylvania will be considered.

Cuba Sells Sugar Crop But Worries Are Not Over

By BEN F. MEYER
Havana, Cuba—(AP)—St. senior, worries of the gay Cuban sugar are over. Now they turn to other things. The recent deal with the United States removed the danger of a surplus from Cuba's 1948 record-breaking crop of 6,680,000 tons. Nearly all of the crop has been sold—more than four million tons to the United States alone. Increased consumption in the United States, and a drop in output by that nation's sugar beet producers solved Cuba's problem. Now the little island is rolling in money. It has a boom on its hands. Prices are sky high on everything except rum. Best grades can be had at $1 to $1.25 a fifth. But all is not joy in the island affectionately known as the pearl of the Antilles. Living costs are much higher than in the United States, where Cuba gets most of its needs, including a great part of its food. Cubans are proud that they did not jack up sugar prices during World War Two. They insist that sugar is the cheapest thing in the world today. There was some criticism in Cuba of the Cuban negotiators for selling sugar to the U. S. Army at four cents a pound for use in occupied areas of Europe, Japan and Korea. The U. S. price on the day of the sale was 5.72 cents, and the world market price 4.42 cents. Luis G. Mendoza, one of Cuba's best experts on sugar marketing, says however, it was "a fair agreement." He says the sugar will go to areas which, for lack of money, could not have consumed sugar otherwise. That, he believes, will help stabilize the world sugar situation.

Meanwhile, the millions of dollars brought in by the 1947 and 1948 sugar crops are changing things in Cuba. Imports of automobiles, refrigerators, electrical appliances, drugs, foodstuffs and many other items Cuba purchases from the U. S. are at a new high level.

Rents are up sharply on new apartments and new houses. They are low on old apartments and old houses, under old leases. That is because rent control does not apply to new buildings.

There seem to be a great many more rich people in Cuba than ever before. Traffic experts say Cuba's shocking number of fatal accidents is due to the boom.

For the man who has money and wants to buy a car, there is no such problem as exists in the United States. The buyer simply goes into an automobile agency, pays his money, and drives away in a shiny new car. Prices are still because of customs duties, added ocean freight, and Latin's insistence on a wider margin of profit. Small cars in the popular price field sell in Cuba for $2600 to $3500.

There is so much money in circulation that Cubans say $1,000 bills are not uncommon sights. A bank was robbed in Havana recently. In the loot were a number of $1,000 bills. Cubans said the robbers would have no trouble passing $1,000 bills, since they are plentiful enough not to attract attention.

Record Spud Crop Forecast In The State

Harrisburg—An all-time record yield of 175 bushels of potatoes per acre on Pennsylvania farms is forecast for this season in Federal-State reports announced by the State Department of Agriculture, following surveys made as of August 1. Potatoes are being grown this season on 109,000 acres, the same as last year, but the average yield is estimated to be 10 bushels per acre larger than in 1947. The indicated crop this season is 19,075,000 bushels compared with 17, Improved cultural practices, better seed and the use of DDT in spraying for control of insect pests are given by observers as main reasons for the increased yields.

For the 10-year period, 1937-46, the average yield per acre on Pennsylvania farms was only 123 bushels, records show.

Condition of potatoes was reported very good on August 1 in most commercial areas. Stands are generally good and vine growth "luxuriant". Blight was present but spraying was adequate and diseases and insects well controlled. Harvesting of early Cobblers was under way by August 1 in southeastern Pennsylvania counties.

New Treasury Savings Note Being Issued

Washington—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder has announced the issuance on September 1 of new treasury savings notes carrying a higher interest yield.

The new "Series D" notes, he said, will mature in three years and carry a maximum yield of $1.40 a month for each $1,000, as compared with $1.07 for the Series C notes. Sale of the Series C will end August 31.

The action follows up Snyder's announcement of higher interest rates on government short-term securities. He describes the policy as anti-inflationary since private interest rates normally follow the trend of government bonds. A rise in interest makes it more expensive to borrow money and therefore curtails the expansion of credit.

The Treasury Savings Notes, usually called "tax-saving notes," are purchased by corporations as a reserve against future payment of taxes. They may be used at any time up to three years for tax payment.
